Soldier died in accident in Iraq

Former Antioch man had family

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Benjamin Jansky grew up in Antioch and graduated from Antioch Community High School in 1994, along with his classmates from Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst. Following graduation he went to the University of Wisconsin in Oshkosh. While in college he joined the ROTC program and the Army Reserves as a reservist after he graduated.

He served in the 921st Maintenance Battalion and then deployed with the 983rd Engineering Battalion to Iraq. He died in a tragic vehicular accident between a Humvee and another military vehicle on July 27 in Al Taqaddum, Iraq.

Brig. Gen. Robert A. Pollmann, commanding general of the 88th Readiness Command, presented Army Reserve Officer Captain Benjamin Donald Jansky with three posthumous awards. The first was the Bronze Star for distinguishing himself with heroic or meritorious achievement. The second is the Meritorious Service Medal presented for outstanding non-combat meritorious achievement or service to the United States. The Brigadier General also presented Captain Jansky with the Army

Commendation Medal for an act of valor.

Funeral services were held last week in Oshkosh, Wis.

Jansky married his college sweetheart Kate Wiczorek in 1998. The two stayed in Oshkosh, joined a Christian organization and mentored children.

When their first daughter, Emma, was born, Jansky decided he would stay home with his daughter while his wife continued to work. Less than two years later his daughter Rayna was born and he then cared for both of his daughters.

"He was heavily involved in church and was a firm believer in Jesus Christ. He walked the walk," said his father, Donald Jansky of Fox Lake.

"He was proud to stay home and he was very devoted," Donald said. "He was very devoted to his family. After three years, he still loved it."

Jansky was activated in October of last year. If he had not been activated by the Army, he would have sought activation his father said. Because of his faith, he believed he was supposed to serve there, he said.

"He was deployed on Dec. 26, and that's the last time we saw him," Donald said.

Construction proceeds at High School District 117

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Most of the summer construction projects at District 117 High Schools are on schedule and will be complete, or almost complete, before school starts on August 22.

Business Manager Bill Ahlers told the school board last week that the one stumbling block that is likely to make them late is in the ACHS cafeteria. All new kitchen equipment has been purchased, but the one item lacking may be the serving counters for the students.

The new cafeteria floor was being installed this week and should be nearly complete.

"We're going right up to the end with the kitchen," Ahlers said.

The bleachers and the concession stand have been progressing.

"The bleachers are about a week ahead of schedule," Ahlers said. "The concession stand is coming along and should be ready about the start of school. The plumbing is an issue."

The tennis courts are in good shape, Ahlers said. They have about 65 percent of the dirt that is needed for grading around the area. The district is working with Thelan Sand and Gravel for the remainder of the needed dirt.

'We're going right up to the end with the kitchen.'

Bill Ahlers
Business Manager

Ahlers said the district plans to seed the area in October so there can be some green grass sprouted before the cold weather sets in.

Auction and BBQ were a hit

Antioch residents ate all the chicken

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

By all indications, the Lion's Club barbeque and the auction to raise money for the Antioch Rescue Squad were a big success. The Lion's Club sold all of their chicken, but they did have a little of their truckload of corn left.

The Rescue Squad raised some much-needed funding and auctioneers were able to entice buyers to take away all but a few small items.

The auction lasted nearly four and a half hours and Herman Behm and Bob Meisinger, as the auctioneers, kept the pace moving right along, according to Steve Smouse, Antioch Township Supervisor.

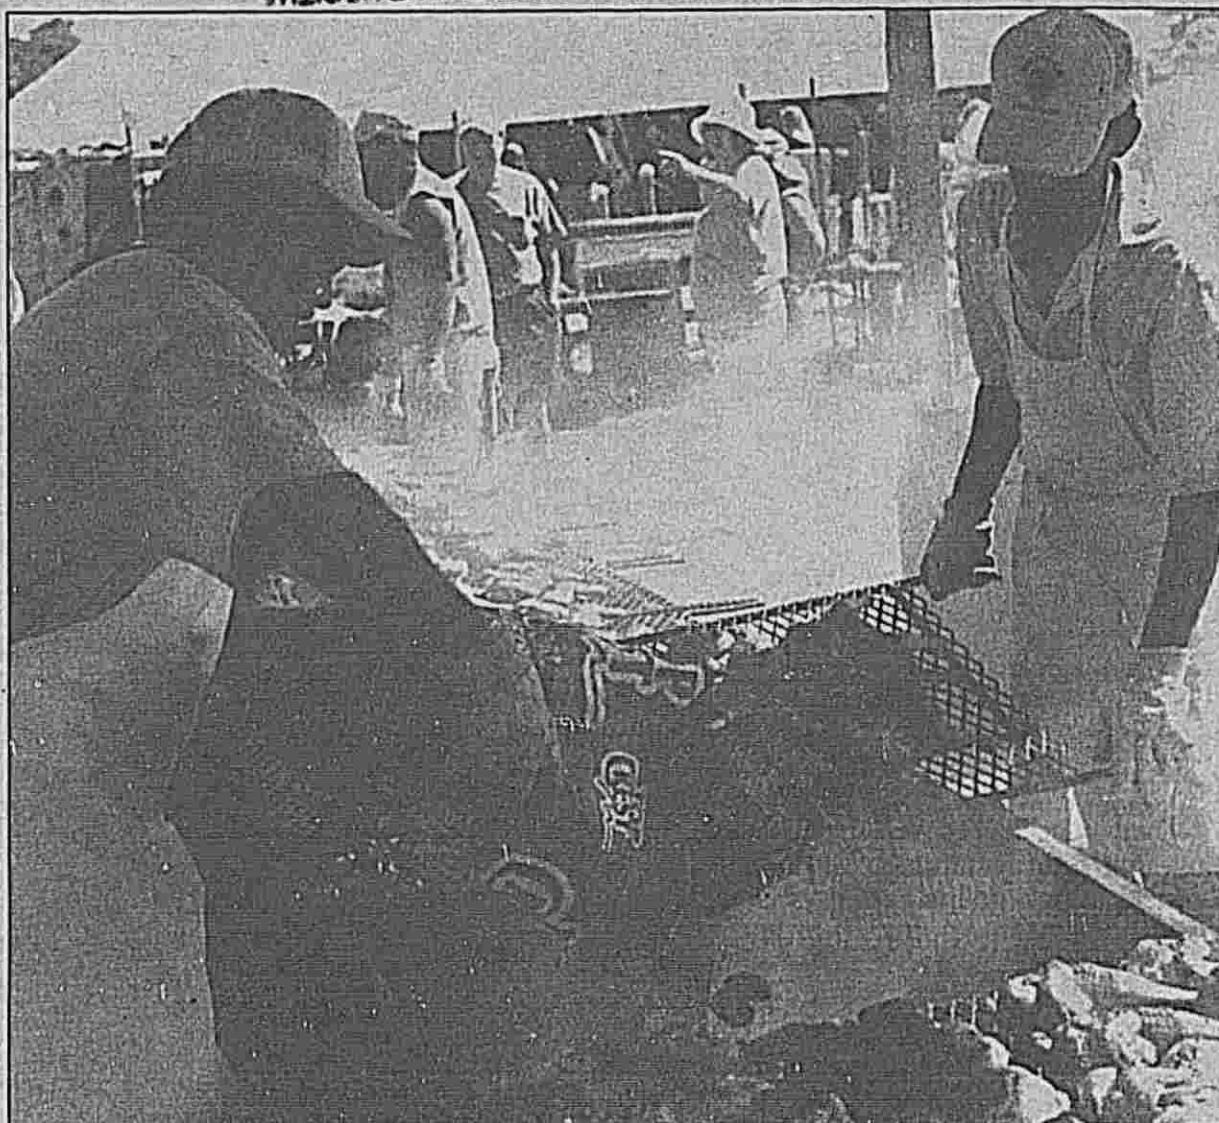

The village helped with the set-up. They brought out tarps to protect the antiques from any possible wet weather and they moved the bleachers and picnic tables, he said.

"The village crew does an outstanding job on that one," Smouse said.

ACHS students must learn new routes to get around high school

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

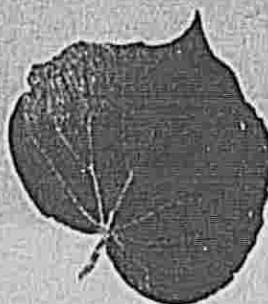

One of the main projects in the Antioch Community High School is the renovation of the commons area that is scheduled to be complete in October. The renovations are more than just cosmetic. Since the school is making changes the district must bring the quality into alignment with new does. That means there will be fire and life safety upgrades included in the project.

In order to help the students orient themselves to new traffic patterns, sophomores through seniors are invited to bring their class schedules and find the best route to classes. Freshmen will have the opportunity to do so on Aug. 17.

JJ Blinkers provides laughs for Antioch

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

Where would you go for a rubber chicken or a whoopee cushion? If you live in Lake County, the best place to begin looking is JJ Blinkers which has had a storefront in downtown Antioch for 20 years.

Trying to categorize the store is a bit difficult because it carries a very wide variety of items. Owner Joanne Linker of Bristol, Wis., calls it a joke and costume shop, but that's really just the beginning. It's a great place to shop for parties or party ideas.

JJ Blinkers carries a touch of whimsy that begins with Linker. She named the store JJ Blinkers, because she has always liked things that blink, it incorporates her last name and "It's more interesting than Joanna's Gift Shop," she said.

Even the warning signs around the store are not the usual. Rather than saying "shoplifters will be prosecuted," at JJ Blinkers, the sign reads, "Get a free ride in a police car if you shoplift." In a similar vein, another sign reads, "Children left unattended must have a very large allowance."

In addition to gag and joke items, party supplies run the gamut from birthday parties to 'Over the Hill Parties' or Hawaiian luaus, and everything in between. There are even specific items for Jimmy Buffett parties since he has two shows in Wrigley Field.

Jennifer Gallimore of Antioch left a job 13 or 14 years ago to join her best friend run her store.

"I love Joanne and I love my job," she said. Gallimore has many stories to repeat that were told to her by those who buy some of the unusual items in the store, and how they planned to use them.

Costumes are a large part of Joanne Linker (left) and Jennifer Gallimore of Antioch sit on either side of "Geezer" who was formerly known at Studmuffin, at least according to his T-shirt. Their jobs keep them laughing since they inject humor into almost everything they possibly can.

Linker's inventory, and she carries it all year. In addition to Halloween, Gallimore said people rent or buy costumes for birthday parties, murder mystery parties, theme parties and on and on. There is even a small adult corner where people can shop for bachelor and bachelorette parties.

Naturally, the big call comes for costumes at Halloween.

"We play our Halloween music every day right after Labor Day and we dress in costumes every weekend in September and October," Gallimore said. In addition to costumes they have theatrical make-up, masks, props, wigs, music and tons of hats to name just a few of the spooky items.

Liebson leaves Antioch

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

Elliot Liebson left his position in Antioch as economic development last week and has begun a new position as the director of MainStreet Libertyville, a not-for-profit, volunteer-based organization, in Libertyville. MainStreet focuses on the preservation of a village's historic downtown district.

Liebson, who had served as the economic development director in Antioch under former Mayor Taso Maravelas, had a change in job description in a lateral move after the new administration was elected. "I was really disappointed, but I understand why he left. I wish him nothing but well," Mayor Dorothy Larson said.

"I was surprised because I thought he and Claude (LeMere) were working real well together," she said. LeMere was appointed by Larson as the director of community services after the election.

When asked if Liebson would be replaced, Larson said, "I'm not sure but I think we may."

Festivals make it easy to give back

Local Jaycees to hold food drives in Gurnee, Lindenhurst this weekend

By Nicholas Alajakis

Staff Reporter

Residents in Gurnee and Lindenhurst will be able to support local food pantries while enjoying themselves at their respective festivals this weekend.

The Gurnee/ Lindenhurst Jaycees are having their first, of what organizers hope will be many Festival Food Drives at both Gurnee Days and Lindenhurst. The food drives are collecting non-perishable foods and other household items for the Warren and Lake Villa Township pantries, said William Rowe, chairman of the North Region Jaycees.

The Jaycees will be at both festivals this weekend, where they'll collect goods and later distribute them to both of the township's food pantries.

At Gurnee Days the Jaycees will be collecting items from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Aug. 13 and 14. And at Lindenhurst they will collect items in the bingo tent from Aug. 11 through the 14th.

Rowe said he is glad his group has been able to help out the township pantries, particularly during the summer, when pantries see fewer donations. And township officials are happy as well. Both pantries have expressed a need for canned goods and pasta, along with paper products, Rowe said.

"We need these supplies year round for our families in need," said Warren Township Supervisor

Suzanne Simpson. "Hunger doesn't go away just because it's summer."

Rowe said he thinks the idea of collecting items at festivals could prove to be successful. Two weeks ago the group was at Grandwood Parks festival and they were able to get a good amount of donated food.

They should get even more this weekend, with larger crowds and some more incentive. Donators in Gurnee and Lindenhurst can win prizes and get freebies, Rowe said.

That type of commitment to helping the communities is great, said Lake Villa Township Supervisor Dan Venturi.

"We are blessed to have so many community groups who are willing to step up and make our food pantry work without spending any taxpayer money," Venturi said. "I am glad the Jaycees are stepping up to continue this tradition."

District 117 to plan for the future

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

Planning for future growth, the District 117 School Board had a public hearing last week to discuss selling $5 million of cash bonds to purchase land for a third high school. There were no district residents, nor any members from the public, attending the hearing, which is the required first step before proceeding.

The subject will be brought up by at some time after Aug. 14 since there is a 30 day waiting period after it was first mentioned, which was July 14. The board will take a final vote at an upcoming board meeting.

Since Lakes High School does not even have seniors at yet, the board does not have any plans to begin building.

Board members want to make the purchase while vacant land is still available.

Sharing my e-mail as an Antioch reporter

E-mail has changed the way we communicate, and that is certainly true in the newsroom. I have decided to share a couple of communiqués I received this week. One is very newsworthy and the other appears to be an out and out scam.

Shortly before deadline I received an e-mail from Kim Miller. She is Kia Miller's mother and had approached the District 117 School Board to ask that her home-schooled daughter be allowed to play soccer on the school team since they are district residents. After a few discussions, the request was denied.

However, Miller is not a quitter and is taking "the battle with homeschoolers and sports participation" to another level. She wrote that she and Kia were interviewed by Frank Deford about the issue by HBO Sports last week, and that the interview will be aired on Aug. 23.

In addition to that, Miller has contacted state representatives and senators requesting that a law be considered to define how the situation be handled statewide on a consistent basis.

Miller wrote, "Senator Geokaris seems to be taking the most interest in this. She strongly feels this should no longer be hit or miss for these kids and definitely feels they have a right to play. She intends to bring in, when the fall session begins," Miller wrote. Heads up, everyone.

Another message sent to my Lakeland e-mail is one I hope others have not received. Just in case, I want to bring it to your attention.

The message came from a supposed online bank named "Bank of the West." I have no account with this alleged institution, and complying with their request would likely lead to identity theft, I suspect. The e-mail states:

Dear Bank Of The West Customer:

Antioch man dies in police custody

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

A 44-year-old Antioch man was arrested for disorderly conduct early Tuesday morning, after a number of residents called 911 asking police to come to Vandermeer Circle.

After he was in custody the man died of cocaine intoxication, according to the coroner, Dr. Richard Keller. His name is being withheld pending notification of his family who were out of the country.

The callers had said a man was throwing around lawn furniture, was on someone's second floor balcony and was yelling unintelligibly, Antioch Police Chief Chuck Fagan said. The man, a recent resident of Hague Drive, ran into the back yard and officers followed. They asked him to lay down, which he did.

"When the officers tried to handcuff him, he became violent and tried to bite and kick them as they tried to restrain him," Chief Fagan said. "When he calmed down the men noticed he had no vital signs. As officers ran for the defibrillator, the Antioch Rescue Squad arrived and took over. They gave him first aid and took him to Victory Hospital.

"He died on the way to the hospital and was declared dead at 3:48 a.m. Tuesday," Fagan said. "This is what we call a death in custody and I called in an independent agency to investigate."

An independent investigation is not unusual in this type of situation because the department wants unbiased information that will dispel any question of impropriety, Fagan said.

"We had a quick response time, and my guys were verbalizing with him all the time. They were trying to keep him from hurting himself," he said.

"This was an isolated incident," Fagan said. "This is a quiet community."

The man had a prior drug arrest in 2001, Fagan said.

When asked for a comment, Commander William Valco of the Lake County Major Crimes Task Force said they are involved in an investigation and wouldn't comment at this time.

Tragedy on Lake Michigan under investigation

Little information is available about an apparent tragedy that occurred early Wednesday morning in Lake Michigan, off the coast of Pleasant Prairie, Wis. It involves an unnamed Antioch family that had a gathering on Lake Michigan.

The body of a 14-year-old boy was washed ashore near the North Point Marina, according to Sgt. Horace Staples of the Kenosha County Sheriff's Office. A 58-year-old man is missing, he said.

"Pleasant Prairie (Police Department) and the Coast Guard are investigating the case," Staples said. "We dispatched a group to the scene to see if we can be of any help."

Attorneys and Counselors at Law

The Geocaris Law Firm is a family-operated general law practice. James Geocaris, Jr., is a trial attorney. Following law school in 1991, he joined the Cook County State's Attorney's Office where he initially served in the Appellate Division, writing and arguing criminal appeals before the Illinois Appellate Court. After that he was transferred to the Criminal Trial Bureau where as a criminal prosecutor, he gained valuable jury trial experience. He then was in the private practice of law in Arlington Heights for several years, practicing in the areas of criminal defense, personal injury, real estate, probate, family law and immigration. Following this, he served as a Federal Prosecutor for the U.S. Virgin Islands Territory where he performed over twenty jury trials at the federal level. After returning to the states in 2001, he joined with his father in the present practice.

James Geocaris, Sr. is a former Marine Corps Attorney. Following this he served in the private practice of law in the 1960's before being appointed as a Magistrate in 1970. Subsequently, he was appointed as an Associate Judge in Cook County and later elected as a full Circuit Court Judge. He became Presiding Judge of the Third Municipal District in 1976, a position he held until his retirement in 1996. He was responsible for creating and implementing the Traffic Diversion Program, giving the motorist the option of signing up for "Traffic School" as opposed to attending court. He also supervised the transition of the Third District to the central court facility located in Rolling Meadows in 1989. He currently serves as the Village Prosecutor for the Village of Rolling Meadows and lives there along with his wife, Naomi.

The firm maintains offices in Palatine and Fox Lake and they regularly practice in Lake County, throughout all of Cook County, in addition to McHenry, Kane, DuPage, Will and Kendall counties. They practice in the areas of criminal and traffic defense, personal injury, family law, immigration, real estate and business services. The basic integrity of this firm has been in existence since 1986 with different personnel over the years. The firm prides itself on achieving the best possible result for their clients.

Flower Shoppe has all the fun

Arrangements deliver happy message

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

Joan Vitello was born and raised in the flower business.

She has owned and operated Laura's Flower Shoppe in Lake Villa since 1989 and has created thousands of flower arrangements for weddings, funerals, baby showers, proms and other events.

Vitello works with a seven person staff, including one of her best friends from grade school who just happened to walk into the store one day.

"You never know who comes through the doors," she said.

Having been in the business for so long, Vitello said that she finds her work most enjoyable when she gets a chance to be creative.

Her arrangements are a testament to her imaginative side. She has sculpted flowers into boats and waves, the American flag and the Cubs logo.

She said she likes to work with clients to find out what they like. Then she will add her own touches.

"Doing the normal things every day gets kind of monotonous," she said. "I actually like to have a challenge."

The classic arrangements are still best sellers, however. An arrangement with a dozen premium red roses can be bought for $70. A birthday balloon bouquet can be bought for $60.

Vitello said that flowers have the unique ability to cheer people up, no matter what the occasion.

"Through happiness and sorrow, flowers fill warmth in the heart," she said.

Laura's Flower Shoppe is located at 300 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Lake Villa.

For more information call 847-356-1150 or visit www.laurasflowershoppe.com to order flowers 24 hours a day.

Township buys bus

Antioch, Grant, Lake Villa townships to have private bus service this

By Brenda Balin

Special to Lakeland Newspapers

Disenfranchised bus riders in Antioch, Grant and Lake Villa townships will soon have easier access to PACE service.

Last week, Lake Villa Township purchased a 15-passenger PACE bus. The bus will be put into service in a few weeks, after the bus has been repainted, had a few minor repairs and bus routes have been designed.

The bus has a wheelchair lift and space for two wheelchairs. It will be making both regularly scheduled stops and unscheduled stops.

"We'll charge fares consistent with PACE," said Lake Villa Township Supervisor Dan Venturi. He indicated some discounted fares, such as senior fares will also be available.

The bus was purchased from PACE, in South Holland, at a cost of $2,500. Lake Villa Township owns the bus outright, but will be working in cooperation with Antioch and Grant townships to provide service to the tri-town area.

Riders will be able to take the bus to connect with regular PACE routes, as well as to specific destinations, such as Gurnee Mills and the College of Lake County.

Venturi said the plan is to have specific routes on specific days, taking passengers shopping and to medical appointments.

PACE policy does not allow buses to be driven off its lot, so towing had to be arranged. When it turned out that the bus's starter was inoperable, Wildwood Towing agreed to take the bus all the way back to Lake Villa at a cost of $125.

The starter has been repaired, and the bus is functional, but for a few minor "glitches," according to Venturi.

"There's a door that needs to be fixed," he said.

The bus has had all PACE identification removed from it, and will be repainted with a new "Township Transit" logo.

There are also plans to create a new tri-town Senior Guide, which will include bus route information.

For more information about the bus, call the Lake Villa Township office at 847-356-2116.

Culver's is coming to town

Antioch will soon be getting another fast food eatery that will keep it in pace with the rest of Lake County. Greg and Darlene Landon, owners of Antioch's first Culver's restaurant, took part in the groundbreaking ceremony recently. Those who drive down Route 173 will be able to watch as the building progresses. Culver's is on an out lot near Wal-Mart.

Village and township officials, Antioch Chamber Directors, and Antioch's pageant winners were at the ceremony were at the ceremony. Craig Culver, the chain's co-founder, welcomed the crowd and was pleased to introduce the local owner's and operators.

When completed, about in October, the restaurant will have dine-in seating, a drive-thru service window, and take-out service. For pleasant-weather dining, an outdoor seating area will also be available.

Culver's architecture features a light brick exterior and a distinctive bright blue roof. The interior will feature a combination of tables and booths in a clean modern décor. To enhance the dining experience, the dining area will be fully carpeted, according to Greg Landon.

Five arrested in marijuana bust

More than 300 grams confiscated

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

At about 11:40 p.m. on July 30 Lake Villa Police Officer Chad McCameron was going to activate his emergency lights to make a routine traffic stop for speeding on Grand Avenue near Fairfield Road. Before he got that chance, however, the 1991 Eagle he was originally going to pull over stopped with a 1994 Pontiac.

McCameron got out of his car to talk to each driver. Receiving conflicting stories about whether or not the passengers of each car knew each other, McCameron pursued further questioning.

He asked the driver of the Pontiac, 18-year-old Samantha Ducat of Spring Grove, if she had anything illegal in the car. Ducat admitted to having marijuana in a cooler in the back seat.

In the cooler McCameron found a gallon-sized baggie containing approximately 334 grams of cannabis. Ducat later informed police that she had bought the marijuana from a man in Fox Lake at about 8 p.m. that day. She refused to give further details.

Further inspection of the car yielded a smoking pipe.

A K-9 unit was brought to inspect the cars and an unidentified pill and electronic scale testing positive for traces of cocaine were found in the Eagle.

Several unknown pills were also found in the Pontiac.

Two separate baggies containing 9 grams of cannabis were also found on 17-year-old Kalyn McCart of Spring Grove.

McCart admitted to buying the marijuana of off Ducat earlier in the day.

Ducat was arrested and charged with felony possession of cannabis with intent to deliver and possession of drug equipment. She was taken to Lake County Jail.

McCart was charged with Class B possession of cannabis and was released on I-Bond.

The driver of the Eagle, Eugene Raymond, 19, of Fox Lake was charged with speeding, operating an uninsured motor vehicle and possession of drug equipment.

Also arrested for possession of drug equipment was Richard Robinette, 19, of Fox Lake. Robert York, 22, of Fox Lake was arrested for felony possession of cannabis. He was transported to Lake County Jail.

HOMETOWNSPORTS

Storm heard in Rebel Yell Tourney

The Lake Villa Storm 13-year-old travelers capped another fine season in capturing the crown in the inaugural Rebel Yell Classic held in Antioch. Stingy pitching and relentless hitting keyed the Storm's dominance as they bested three area teams.

Lake Villa opened the tourney against upset-minded Antioch. The Storm took advantage of some early walks and, led by Andrew Tubek's first of two singles, jumped to an early lead and never looked back, downing the host Rebels 10-4. Sam Leafblad and Cale St. Clair each had a pair of RBI to help lead the assault. The pitching trio of Andrew Jackson, Paul J. Poirier and St. Clair limited the Rebels to just three hits in the contest.

Timely hitting propelled the Storm in its next tilt against a talented Warren Gold squad. Joey Harms nailed an 0-2 offering off the left field fence in the top of the last inning to break a 1-1 tie, scoring Leafblad who had tripled.

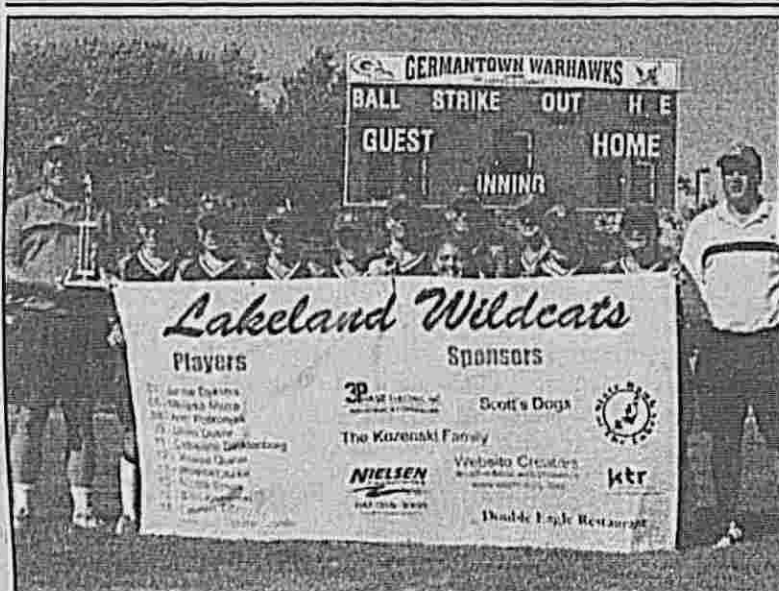

The Lincolnshire Bulldogs were the Storm's next victim. Tubek again led the barrage with a pair of hits, and doubles by Alex May and Travis Vanderwall and an RBI single by Kyle Bessa contributed to the 8-0 drubbing. Harms and Vanderwall denied any offensive threat as they combined for a two-hit shutout.

Warren Gold awaited Lake Villa in the championship game. The Gold surged to a 3-0 lead as the Storm's usually reliable defense suffered a letdown. Lake Villa mounted no serious threat until the bottom of the fourth. In that stanza the Storm bats exploded as they grabbed a lead it would never relinquish.

Harms tripled and Ryan Noon and May chipped in doubles as balls rattled the outfield fence. Cam Jerina led the running game with a pair of stolen bases. Jackson, Vanderwall and Poirier stymied rallies by Warren to help secure a 14-5 victory.

The Lake Villa Storm 13-year-old travelers pose with their trophies after capturing the crown in the Inaugural Rebel Yell Classic held in Antioch.

Supt. Dick gives look to future for Gavin schools

Was superintendent at Wauconda

By Steve Peterson

Staff Reporter

Assuring a strong start to the 2005-06 school year and assisting in the transition from a tumultuous past to a smooth future are the goals Darrell Dick has been assigned as the interim superintendent at Gavin School District 37.

As the Aug. 23 start of school nears, Superintendent Dick said he believes the school district is moving to a more united future.

"The role of an interim superintendent is to serve the district in a unique situation to transition to the future," Dick said. Dick works for the Regional Superintendent of Education office as a contracted employee. The retired Wauconda school superintendent has worked at Antioch High School with Rich Kolze, Lake Zurich with Donald Gossett, Antioch Upper Grade with Gossett and North Chicago with Gossett.

"Roycealee Wood (regional superintendent) was very supportive of my taking the position here, as we met with the school board after Ray Partridge (former Mundelein Dist. 75 chief) decided not to come," Dick said.

Dick said the hiring process has gone well, with eight to 10 teaching positions hired since a citizens group dropped its lawsuit, releasing $7 million in state funds.

"We have had a lot of good, quality candidates to choose from," Superintendent Dick said. "I saw a few issues to work on. One was the resolution of hiring of principals (Ron Banion at Gavin South Junior High and Miriam Cutler for Gavin Central), finalizing a contract with the teachers, and getting Lake Zurich North ready for the new school year. The teachers will be moving into Lake Zurich for the next couple of weeks. Then, working on a negotiated settlement for Gavin Central, and we're working toward that goal.

Dick said the staff, board of education and community have all been welcoming since he started in early July. The board is about to begin the second round of superintendent candidate interviews. Dick was appointed after Marge Fostiak resigned on June 30, after she was hired as superintendent in Byron, Ill.

Gavin Central has been closed since March, 2004 when faulty trusses and other problems were found at the eight-year-old building. Grades one through five will attend Lake Zurich Middle School North's former school on Midlothian Road this month.

"Lake Zurich North will be a good place. The people who have been there have been pleased with it," Dick said.

Dick's two children, Dave and Kathleen Scott, are both in education. Dave is an assistant principal at Barrington Prairie Middle School and Scott is a teacher in Colorado. Dick, a Wauconda resident, had his start in teaching in Girard, Ill., then was a high school principal in St. Anne, was an assistant superintendent for 11 years at a large school district in Colorado at St. Vrain to 1979, then was superintendent at Wauconda District 118 from 1979 to 1994.

"The 1980s was a tough time for Wauconda. It was always a good place to be, and it will be even better with the $60 million referendum, with all schools getting air conditioning and a new middle school," said Dr. Dick, 67. "The district is making a change from a rural district to a suburban school district."

The timing to guide Ingleside's Gavin school district was a good one. His duties inspecting schools and life safety work begin later this fall. He is also a partner in Bicket Associates, a hiring consulting firm for schools.

He said all of his jobs in education have been rewarding ones.

"There is still a lot of highly qualified teachers today. The technology skills that they bring have a big impact on the students," Dick said.

Dr. Dick is expected to serve Gavin until Aug. 17. The school conducted registration last week. "It is expected that that will have a positive impact on enrollment," he said.

Rock Star: Austin's

Leviathon Choir performs at Austin's Saloon in their Headliners' contest which takes place on Wednesday nights in Libertyville.

By Regan Foster

In a time marked by Reality T.V. and so-called "Bubble Gum Pop" music, a Libertyville restaurant-club is giving local musicians the chance to not only play, but to earn a coveted headliner position on its main stage.

Unlike the CBS-TV show "Rock Star: INXS," these artists aren't attempting to fill a spot vacated by a former lead singer. It's not hosted by Dave Navarro and ratings are some of the farthest things from performers' minds.

But, to those who have taken the stage at Austin's Saloon and Eatery this summer, "Headliners" is just as good, if not a better, an opportunity.

"Austin's is an incredible place," said trumpeter David "Horns" Ford of the suburban southern rock/blues band Universal Slim and the Blues Kangaroos. "We play all over the city of Chicago, we've played Detroit, we've played Jacksonville, Fla., and Austin's is as fine a place to play as we have ever performed."

The headliners concept, which launched July 13, was actually a while coming. Austin's owner Mark Khayat and general manager Ralph Sabatini systematically made the bar and grill one of the hottest live-music venues in Lake County. The renaissance captured the attention of up-and-coming musicians from throughout the Chicagoland area.

That was the word from Steve Salzmon, an on-air personality with 95.1 FM WILL Rock and marketing consultant.

"It's turned into one of the most desirable venues to play in Lake County," Salzmon said. "We get bombarded every day with CDs, media packets, applications. 'We get some really good local talent that wants to play here.'"

So much, in fact, that the saloon and eatery was forced to come up with an alternative way to choose their lead bands. Talent coordinator Ryan McMahon said he received between 10 and 20 phone calls and a minimum of three applications each day from hopeful musicians vying for a time slot on stage.

From this flooding, Headliners was born. Every Wednesday night through Aug. 31, four select bands from the thousands of hopefuls that query the saloon each month will be invited on stage for a battle of the bands.

Performers are judged on strict criterion ranging from quality of performance including musical skills and vocals, to marketing skills such as the quality of the band Web site to promotional materials. The number of fans attending the competition and professionalism round out the judging considerations.

Winning bands are given a free Washburn guitar courtesy of Mundelein-based U.S. Music Corp. and a booking date to play one of eight nights as the headline show at the venue. When they take the stage this autumn, they will be guaranteed either $700 cash or 100 percent of the take at the door, whichever is larger, Salzmon said.

Universal Slim and the Blues Kangaroos was another of the four lucky bands to claim the award, as of press time. The band is no stranger to the Austin's stage, but Ford hoped the win would only strengthen the group's reputation throughout the greater Chicago area.

"We as a band have really bloomed in the last year, and Austin's is ... a part of that. We hope they will continue to be a part of our success," he said. "There are a lot of places that we play that are less than desirable. Those are the prices that we play while we're growing."

"Austin's is the place that you feel good about goin', that you feel good about inviting your friends and family there, that you feel good about having people come and see you."

Jeff Senger, the guitarist for hard-rock revivalists Brothers of Another, said his band tried several times to make it to the Austin's stage. It was a shock, he said, when they were not only allowed to play, but chosen as the top band for the contest's third week.

"We're out there to have fun and whatever happens, happens. We went up there with no expectations," he said. "We were quite impressed by them. It's a great place to play, the stage is good, the sound guy we had was the best sound that we've had in any venue."

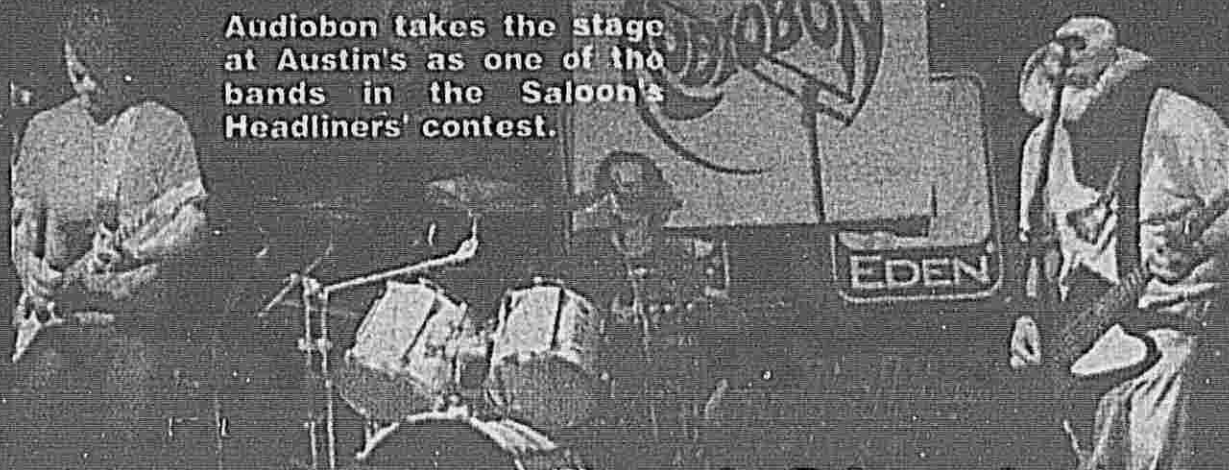

"The way the management treated us at Austin's from the beginning when we first decided to go on with this, it was easy to work with. There were no problems, no concerns. ... Any good manager, treats people with respect, and there are a lot of owners that don't."

For Senger and his band mates — Bassist John Bentall and Drummer Perry Ridiros — the Headliners experience could be summarized in a dozen words:

"The sound was phenomenal, the environment is phenomenal, the people are phenomenal."

Waterstone fine art fest in Third Lake

The inaugural fine art festival in Third Lake, has potential to play a huge role in bringing fine arts to the booming north-west suburban area.

The festival takes place on Aug. 13 and 14, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days, at Waterstone Place on the corner of Route 45 and Washington Street in Third Lake.

The juried artists represent most media, including acrylic, glass, wood, watercolor, mixed media, metal, jewelry, fiber and ceramic.

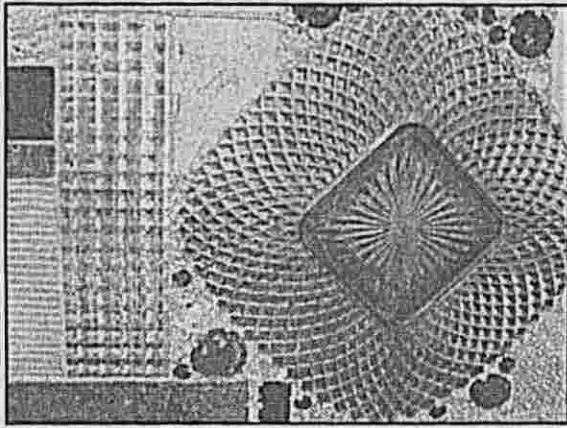

The ArtWorks Museum will be on site supervising children's art activities for both days of the festival. Live music and entertainment is also a plus.

The promoters, D & W Events, Inc., are extremely excited to be able to bring the first show of this quality to the area. "We seek artists with excellent quality that are affordable to the general public. There's nothing worse than going to an art fair where everything has an exorbitant price tag," said Debbie Netter, partner in D & W Events, Inc. "Our festivals are friendly, have a positive atmosphere & outstanding quality and are priced within most everyone's means. We've found this formula insures a successful festival."

Dwight Crane:

Waterstone fine art fest has chosen Dwight Crane as their print ad artist in the majority of the ads run for the festival this year. Dwight's work is truly phenomenal.

A retired police officer, Dwight has been woodturning for twelve years and participating in art shows for ten years. He has taken classes at Arrowmont School for the Arts in Gatlinburg, Tennessee and Woodcraft Supply in Provo, Utah. Dwight has also attended seminars in Colorado, Illinois and Missouri.

His pieces are in several galleries in Illinois and Missouri including the Southern Ill. Artisans Gallery in Rend Lake, Illinois. Dwight was one of fifty five artists chosen to be included in a publication called Made in Illinois an Artist Gal put out by the State of Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs. He has also received several awards at the art shows he's attended including Best of Wood at the Cedarhurst Art and Craft Fair in Mt. Vernon, 11 and awards at Woodstock Art Fair in Woodstock, Dixon Art Fair in Dixon and Winona Lake Fine Art Fair in Winona Lake, Ind. Dwight loves woodturning and is very happy when other people love and appreciate his work too.

Dwight can be seen at the Waterstone fine art fest on Aug. 13 and 14 in Third Lake. The festival is on route 45 and Washington Street in Waterstone Place. Hours of the festival are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. The festival also features free children's art activities, live musical entertainment, free admission and parking.

Retta Hentschel:

A local artist, Retta Hentschel, was selected for the cover of the Waterstone fine art fest brochure. Retta's innovative use of glass has afforded her huge success for many years.

Dwight Crane

Retta can be seen at the Waterstone fine art fest on Aug. 13 and 14 in Third Lake in booth 11. The festival runs from 10 to 5 both days. Festival location is on route 45 and Washington.

Pat King

Pat King:

Waterstone fine art fest features artists from across the country as well as in our own backyard.

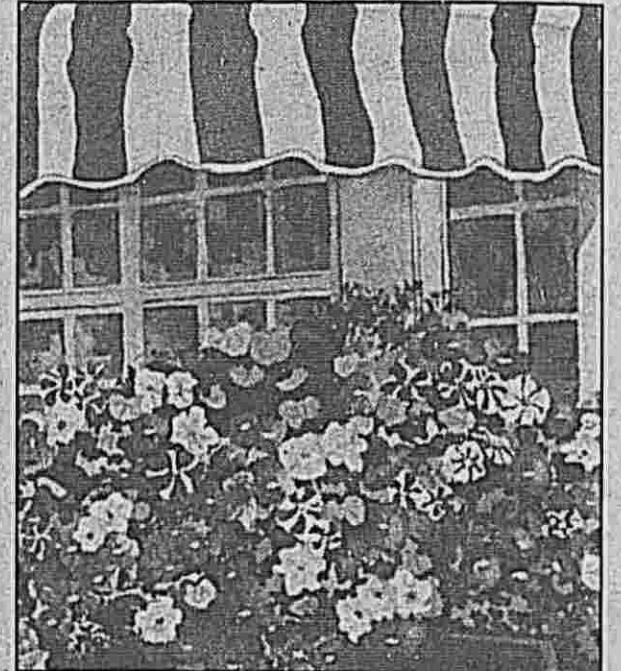

Pat King, born and raised in Gurnee, currently living in Waukegan, has her beautiful watercolors featured at the Deer Path Gallery in Lake Forest, as well as numerous businesses throughout Lake County. Pat is currently working on the 8th edition holiday card featuring the Art Institute of Chicago for Courage Cards of Minnesota.

Pat will be in booth 33 at the Waterstone fine art fest on Aug. 13 and 14, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., both days. The festival is in Third Lake in Waterstone Place on route 45 and Washington St. Third Lake is between Gurnee and Grayslake.

Fall lineup features big acts at Genesee

George Carlin to appear in additional show Sept. 16 at 9:30 p.m.

Due to incredible demand for legendary comedian George Carlin, Nitelite Promotions and Jam announce a second performance at the Genesee Theatre for Friday, Sept. 16 at 9:30 p.m. Tickets for the performance, priced at $35, $45 and $50, are on-sale now, and can be purchased at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212 or online at www.ticketmaster.com. The two performances at the Genesee Theatre are the only Chicagoland dates Carlin will perform this year.

George Carlin's penetrating humor has elicited comparisons ranging from Jonathon Swift to Lenny Bruce. Carlin's ability to find the funny side of the most fundamental aspects of human behavior has enabled him to survive and thrive through seemingly endless comedy trends. His fearless approach has plunged him into controversy, yet he invariably emerges as a humorist ahead of his time. His wildly original observations on politics, the media, big business, religion and language have been eloquently and amusingly expressed in best-selling books, recordings and a dozen HBO Specials. Because of the exploratory nature of his comedy, his insights remain fresh and unfailingly appeal to new generations of fans.

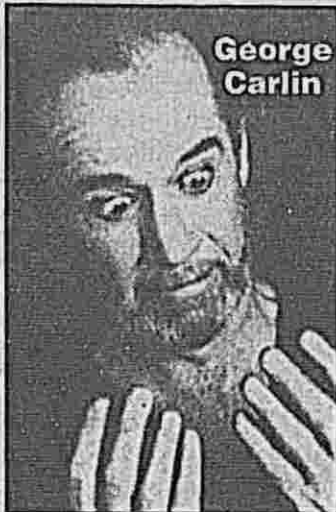

At the present time, Carlin's concert shows serve as the preparation ground for his thirteenth HBO comedy special, George Carlin: Right Near Broadway, which will air in the Fall of 2005. The show, his fifth from New York, will be broadcast from a Broadway theater to be named in the near future. A CD of the show will follow, bring his album total to 25, including compilations and books on tape.

Moody Blues kick off their fall tour at the Genesee Oct. 26 at 8 p.m.

Nitelite Promotions and Star Productions announce "An Evening with the Moody Blues" at the Genesee Theatre for one night only, Wednesday, Oct. 26 at 8 p.m. Tickets for the performance, priced at $54 and $64, go on sale Saturday, Aug. 13 at noon, and can be purchased at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212 or online at www.ticketmaster.com. This legendary band has chosen the Genesee Theatre to be the rehearsal venue and the start of their new fall 2005 tour.

For almost 40 years The Moody Blues (Justin Hayward, John Lodge and Graeme Edge) have been musical mainstays. With the release of their innovative and ground breaking album, Days of Future Passed, The Moody Blues catapulted into the realms of pop history. They captured the music scene with hits like "Tuesday Afternoon," "Nights In White Satin," "Ride My Seesaw," "Your Wildest Dreams," and "I'm Just A Singer (In A Rock-n-Roll Band)." They have created a standard for classic rock music that has been honored with countless awards and accolades, guaranteeing them a priceless place in rock history.

Legendary songstress Olivia Newton-John Nov. 4 at 8 p.m.

The Genesee Theatre and Nitelite Promotions are proud to announce Olivia Newton-John at the Genesee Theatre for one night only, Friday, Nov. 4 at 8 p.m. Tickets for the performance, priced at $40, $45, $55 and $65, go on sale Friday, August 5 at 10:00am, and can be purchased at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212 or online at www.ticketmaster.com.

Her 1973 U.S. album debut, "Let Me Be There," on MCA Records produced her first top ten single of the same name, with Olivia being honored by the Academy Of Country Music as Most Promising Female Vocalist and a Grammy Award as Best Country Vocalist. This proved to be only the beginning of a very exciting career. Her countless successes include three more Grammys, numerous Country Music Awards, American Music Awards and

Olivia Newton-John

Peoples Choice Awards, five #1 hits including "Physical," which topped the charts for ten consecutive weeks, and 15 top 10 singles. In 1978, her co-starring role with John Travolta in "Grease" catapulted Olivia into super-stardom. This film led to the production of the most successful movie musical soundtrack in history, featuring the duets "You're The One That I Want" and "Summer Nights," with Travolta, as well as her mega-hit, "Hopelessly Devoted To You."

Community theatre group begins with 'Deathtrap'

One of the longest-running volunteer community theatre companies in Lake County. The Kirk Players kicks off its upcoming 40th season with a line-up of four productions.

"This season will not only challenge our actors and our technicians, it will engage our audiences in stimulating, provocative and innovative theatre," said Paddy Lynn, artistic director and president.

The season begins in November with Ira Levin's thrilling who-done-it, "Deathtrap," performed at Cuneo Museum & Gardens, at 1350 N. Milwaukee Ave., in Vernon Hills. Evening performances are at 7:30 p.m., Thursdays through Saturdays, Oct. 27-29, Nov. 3-5, Nov. 10-12 and Nov. 17-19. Matinees are at 4 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays, Oct. 29-30, Nov. 5-6, Nov. 12-13 and Nov. 19-20.

The next three shows of The Kirk Players' 2006 season will be performed in the Mundelein High School auditorium, 1250 W. Hawley. "Jake's Women," a Neil Simon comedy, debuts at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 19. Additional evening performances are at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 20-21. A 2 p.m. matinee will be on Jan. 21.

With a commitment to providing children's theatre, The Kirk Players opens "Winnie the Pooh," dramatized by Kristin Sergel from the stories of A.A. Milne, at 7 p.m., Thursday through Saturday, April 13-15. A 2 p.m. matinee will be held on April 15.

Always a popular favorite, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," a comedy by Dale Wasserman adapted from the novel by Ken Kesey, will close the company's 40th season in June. Evening performances will be at 8 p.m., Thursday through Saturday, June 8-10, with a 2 p.m. matinee on June 10.

With more than 50 members on its company's roster, The Kirk Players perform four shows annually with 100 percent of its profits donated back to the community. The company's actors, directors and technicians -- all community area residents -- volunteer their time, talents and energies.

Led by founder John W. Lynn of Mundelein, a handful of Players began performing in 1966, providing a benefit performance at the Kirk of the Lakes Presbyterian Church, in Mundelein, to raise funds to help Vietnamese children with cleft palates. Since that time, The Kirk Players have raised more than $100,000, benefiting numerous community organizations, including Omni Youth Services, Bright Horizons, Lake County League of Women Voters, Knights of Columbus, Lake County Museum and Boy Scouts.

"As I look forward to our 40th season of community service, I can't help but reflect with enormous pride on the people whose lives we have touched," John W. Lynn said. "Not only the thousands we've entertained or the more than $100,000 we've donated to worthwhile service-oriented organizations, but the hundreds of people whose lives have been enriched by the opportunity to participate in our activities and share in our love."

Season ticket holders receive the best value for The Kirk Players' shows. Costs are $60, families; $50, couples; $30, singles; $20, seniors; and $40, senior couples. Call (1-847) 566-6391 to purchase season tickets. "Deathtrap" performances at the Cuneo Museum & Gardens will be by reservation only.

Tickets for the remaining three shows also will be available at the door, as well as from cast and crew members. For more information about The Kirk Players' upcoming 40th season, or about the theatre company and its work, visit www.kirkplayers.com.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES

Mar 21/Apr 20

Take the time to do an important project the right way, Aries, or you're bound to have to do it again in a few weeks. With so much on your plate, now's not the time for mistakes.

LIBRA

Sept 23/Oct 23

You're having trouble finding that perfect love match, Libra. Rest assured that some progress will be made this week. This person is someone you see every day.

TAURUS

Apr 21/May 21

Put on a happy face, Taurus. Things aren't as bad as you're making them seem. Trust that by week's end you'll be back in better spirits for a while. Others will notice the change.

SCORPIO

Oct 24/Nov 22

Your passion could get you in trouble, Scorpio. Stop making eyes at that forbidden someone. It's not a risk you want to take, especially if you are in a steady relationship.

GEMINI

May 22/Jun 21

You're going the distance in a relationship that is bound to fail, Gemini. Why not concentrate your efforts on something that is sure to succeed instead?

SAGITTARIUS

Nov 23/Dec 21

Now's the time to invest your money in a surefire plan, Sagittarius -- no more of these fly-by-night operations. Leo will certainly be happy about the change.

CANCER

Jun 22/Jul 22

It's time to step out of the spotlight, Cancer, and let someone else have his or her moment instead. Everyone knows you're the life of the party, but try being a little more humble.

CAPRICORN

Dec 22/Jan 20

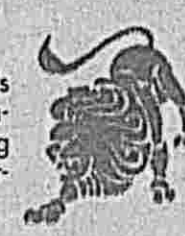

Has a roommate or housemate been crimping your style, Capricorn? It might be wise to start looking for a larger residence. This way you both can have more private space.

LEO

Jul 23/Aug 23

It's time to speak up about what's been bothering you, Leo. The situation won't solve itself by your keeping your lips sealed. Others will understand your point of view.

AQUARIUS

Jan 21/Feb 18

Your maturity level certainly hasn't matched up with your age, lately, Aquarius. Stop acting silly and realize the role you play in all of your relationships.

VIRGO

Aug 24/Sept 22

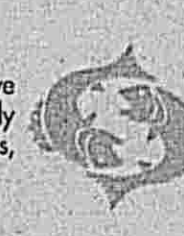

You want to help out a friend, but he or she isn't ready to accept assistance. Be patient, Virgo. This person will come around by the weekend, and will then be ready to listen to you.

PISCES

Feb 19/Mar 20

Confess to the bad deeds you've done, and a loved one will certainly forgive you for them. The truth hurts, but is the best option.

We keep the "Community" In Community Banking

At State Bank of The Lakes, we've been serving our customers and communities for over 110 years. We offer the services and conveniences of those big banks, but we're not a big bank - we treat our customers like people, not numbers. We make decisions locally. We take the time to get to know you. Then we help you achieve your dreams by providing the financial product and service solutions you need to make them come true. If that's what you're looking for in a bank, then stop in and say "Hi!" We'd love the opportunity to get to know you.

Don't Be A Stranger

Wanted: BFF for long-term relationship. Take long walks around the block. Share bologna sandwiches over lunch. Skip rope, tease boys, and ALWAYS "pinky swear" to keep each other's secrets. Please respond to "Burned by former Best Friend Forever."

I wish I could protect my daughter from the bumps and bruises of friendship. Her tear-jerker about breaking up with her "best bud" isn't flattering. "Life came crashing in on me in fourth grade when I said to Erin, 'I better not see Erica near us. But noooo she just brought her to us and they were whispering about me. I just wanted to punch Erin right there, even if it was a Catholic school!"

I'd like to reassure my daughter that these hurts are only a part of growing up. But this doesn't seem to be the case with female friendships maybe because they're so important to a woman's well being. Apparently we ladies have a lot in common with prairie voles, according to Sue Carter, professor of psychiatry at the University of Illinois. While male voles turn to their mates when under stress, females seek their own for solace—say with a girls' night out—and avoid the additional stressor of an evening "satisfying" their mates in return for comfort.

Leslie Glazier-Werner

With this in mind, Pam, Linda and I left our husbands at home so we could enjoy the Second City production, "Girls' Night Out" at Arlington Heights Metropolis Performing Arts Centre. It was the least we could do for Pam, who was facing another birthday. (After all, Pam, who "knows her wing nuts," showed up at Linda's "Pirates of the Caribbean" birthday celebration sporting an eye patch, and the hook attachment off her kitchen mixer.)

Still, we had awkward silences that evening despite knowing each other years. Why? Because even grown-up girls worry about ending up a third wheel, not the BEST friend, as reflected in the show's hilarious cat-fight between competing female newscasters. And God forbid one reveal a confidence. A friend's betrayal can make a woman feel as violated as if her mate cheated on her. This fear of exposure surfaced in Second City's comic gynecological exam, played in exquisitely painful slow motion during each embarrassing procedure.

But the saving grace of female friendship is talk, whether hours on the phone, or the endless e-mails satirized in "Girls' Night Out." Talk is our teacher, dishing out a painful lesson about trust, or a valuable insight into ourselves. No wonder the female jury in "Girls' Night Out" acquits a woman for stabbing her husband after she tells her story. Verdict: "We understand."

Neighbors uneasy in light of serial rapist's latest charge

By Dan Patrick
Staff Reporter

Some members of the Round Lake Beach community are wary last week after the recent charge of fellow resident Christopher Hanson. Hanson is now accused of raping and stabbing an 18 year old woman in Libertyville June 6.

He allegedly grabbed a woman from behind while she was jogging in the Libertyville Prairie Conservancy, forced her to the ground at knifepoint and stabbed her in the throat, fleeing the scene and leaving her for dead.

According to prosecutors, this is not Hanson's first time, as he was also convicted for criminal assault in 1993 and attempted criminal assault in 1999 after release from his first jail sentence.

Judge recuses self, cites relationship with 2 accused

By Regan Foster
Staff Reporter

It took two judges to reach a ruling, but two former jail chiefs accused of attempting to bilk the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund (IMRF) of more than $340,000 were released on their personal recognition last week, after turning themselves over to the county.

Judge Fred Foreman recused himself from presiding over the pension fraud trial brought against former Jail Director Lawrence Lesza and once Deputy Director Charles DeFilippo. The case was handed to Judge James Booras after Foreman told attorneys on both sides of the case he had a personal relationship with the duo.

"I have known Mr. Lesza since high school," Foreman said. "I have known Mr. DeFilippo (throughout) his tenure."

Foreman noted that he had daily contact with both Lesza and DeFilippo as a former representative of the jail and while working on design studies for the current jail facility.

DeFilippo and Lesza were indicted on July 27 on charges that they worked together to bilk the IMRF of about $344,000.

At the heart of the indictment, which was handed down by Lake County State's Attorney Mike Waller, were charges that Lesza signed off on a pension rating for DeFilippo that was higher than he would actually have earned if he was allowed to retire as planned in August 2008.

DeFilippo: His attorney calls case "witch hunt."

DeFilippo was hired as a corrections officer in the early 1980s but allegedly stated in a 1999 letter to the IMRF that he was hired as a deputy sheriff.

The two ranks carry different reimbursement from the state retirement fund, to the tune of an additional $19,000 in benefits each year.

DeFilippo was charged with one count each of conspiracy to commit theft in excess of $100,000 and attempted theft exceeding $100,000, and five counts of forgery, all felonies punishable by jail time. Lesza was

Ex-state rep. to challenge Geo-Karis

Sue Simpson, the Republican Warren Township supervisor and former state representative, announced her candidacy for the Illinois Senate seat from the 31st District.

"Our region needs new energy in our fight to resolve the school funding crisis, establish a hospital in the northwestern part of the county and protect our neighbors and children from violent offenders," Simpson said.

Simpson, of Grayslake, seeks to unseat Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), who has held the post since 1979.

"I want to lead us toward a future in which we get these things done," she said. "Our schools shouldn't have to repeatedly ask hard-pressed homeowners for higher property taxes, sick people shouldn't have to make a cross-county trek to get care and everyone should be able to walk or run through our parks with confidence in their safety."

"I believe I have the experience and enthusiasm to be an effective senator," Simpson said. "My record of achievement shows I can lead Lake County into the future."

Now in her third term as supervisor, the fiscally conservative Simpson led the planning and construction of a town hall and senior center, two teen centers and a skate park. These projects were financed without a tax increase to residents, with funding coming from budgetary savings, loans and state grants, Simpson said.

Appointed to the state House of Simpson: Hopes to be first to unseat Geo-Karis.

Representatives at the end of 2001 to complete the term of departing Rep. Andrea Moore, Simpson served on several key committees including energy and environment, labor, telecommunications and a Republican panel on death penalty reform.

Simpson also has extensive private sector experience. Presently serving as Chairman of the Board of Delta Star, Inc., which makes power transformers, she owned Behning's Automotive Parts and Simpson Equipment, Inc. before selling her interest in 1998. She was named, Businesswoman of the Year in 2001 by the Grayslake chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

"As someone who has lived and worked in Lake County all my life and has spent many years trying to improve the quality of life here, I think I can relate extremely well to the issues facing our residents and I can represent and voice those issues with new energy in Springfield," said Simpson, who has also served on the Lake County Regional Planning Commission, the Lake County Zoning Board of Appeals and the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County.

Peter Gallagher of Grayslake is serving as campaign manager and Daniel Venturi of Lake Villa is the campaign's treasurer. The 31st State Senate district includes all or part of Antioch, Avon, Benton, Grant, Lake Villa, Newport, Warren, Waukegan and Zion townships in northern Lake County.

SWALCO elects new officers

The Board of the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) elected the following officers:

Chairman-Larry T. Mount, Round Lake Beach trustee; vice chairman-Glenn Ryback, Wauconda Senior trustee; treasurer-Mike Ellis, Village manager; Executive Committee-Glenn Ryback, Wauconda Senior trustee; Kent Street, Lake Bluff Village administrator; Ted Mueller, Hainesville mayor

John Norris, Riverwoods trustee, was also elected to fill the remainder of a vacated one-year term on the Executive committee.

Service area funding finds village interest

There's another taxation method lurking in the wings and it could be gaining favor with cash-strapped politicians. Called Special Service Areas (SSAs), the device has been talked about and has come into play in a few localities in unincorporated areas where there is no sponsoring legal entity. Lately, the feasibility of SSA funding has cropped up in Libertyville and Round Lake.

SSAs were authorized in Illinois in 1973. By 1988 there were more than 180 of them. One SSA in Lake County operates in a resort area to provide lake management funding for Loon Lake, Antioch Township.

More often, municipalities and developers work together to create SSAs to fund improvements like streets, storm sewers, sidewalks and streetlights. The developer builds improvements and is repaid by the issuance of bonds, which are repaid by property owners who pay an annual fee. Technically, it's not a tax, although interest is tax deductible.

SSA costs are not tied to real estate valuation so there is no escalation. All owners within the service area pay the same annual amount. SSA assessments can be pre-paid or paid in full at any time. The assessment stays with the property so householders can move and not worry about the charge.

Chances are SSAs will become more popular. Public officials have a difficult time "not liking" the non-tax money raisers when they find out how easy they are to implement.

Protecting trees serious business

More and more municipalities are enacting tough tree protection ordinances. Waukegan is the latest to put on the books an ordinance with teeth to protect stately trees. As among the first cities to protect trees, Lake Forest and Highland Park have a long history of protecting trees and proscribing care for trees on both and private property.

Permitting now will be necessary in Waukegan to cut down a tree more than 20 inches in diameter. Waukegan has recognized a category of "heritage trees" in need of protection.

Grayslake falls in the category of most villages that have tree regulations governing care and replacement of trees on public right-of-ways. Village Admin. Mike Ellis sees expansion of tree care ordinances to private property in the future. Case law supports expansive and aggressive control by local government of the future of trees on private property.

Alderman Tony Figueroa said the impetus behind Waukegan's tougher tree ordinances is to get people to realize how important trees are in the neighborhood and the quality of life. The City of Waukegan will be able to dictate replacement of trees taken down for reasonable reasons such as dead, diseased or hindrance to commercial development. A new benchmark will be introduced into Waukegan governmental parlance: "What is good forestry."

Lincolnshire has had a village forester on staff for a long time and has a long record of legislating the rights and responsibilities of residents over tree removal. Lincolnshire's approach to trees, regarded as aggressive but a model in suburban government, requires a removal permit for a tree six inches in diameter or a group of trees with a combined width of six inches. Lincolnshire's tree rules allow for removal without a permit to "allow for good forestry," when there is death or danger, or to improve aesthetic appearances.

To underscore the importance of good tree management, Lincolnshire requires a cash deposit of $150 per inch of tree replacement required. Deposits are refunded upon approval and inspection.

Waukegan Mayor Dick Hyde thinks tree laws should be even tougher. The new Waukegan ordinance provides for a fine of $15,000 for felling illegally a tree 20 inches in width. Municipalities invoking tree ordinances look upon trees as both natural and community resources. The new regulations fit nicely with the city master plan and efforts to revitalize Waukegan, stated Russ Tomlin, head of the Dept. of Planning and Zoning.

For good reason, more and more officials shudder at the practice of developers to clear cut land before building homes. Their greatest nightmare is Mr. T's 1987 chain-saw massacre of trees on his Lake Forest estate that attracted national attention and defaced an entire neighborhood.

A stately tree is a treasure. Protecting and caring for trees just makes good sense.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Need to expose assembly leaders

Why, when you castigated the miscreant rump Republican Assembly in your latest editorial, you allowed the ringleaders the shield of anonymity?

Are there actually other dues paying members of this self anointed group other than the nattering nabobs of negativism Jack Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond True? You miss-serve your readers by not exposing them and their antics as another example of Martin's self aggrandizing stunts.

Martin and his puppets have interjected themselves all too often, not only against the leader of the local party, JoAnne Osmond and campaigning against former county chair Mayor Tom Adams in Green Oaks and now with County Board Chair Schmidt, but in local school board issues in Gurnee, Grayslake, Mundelein and their home area Libertyville township spreading their virulent provocations. You should have reminded your readers that the leader of this self ordained group was resoundingly rejected by the wise electorate of Libertyville Township when Mr. Martin's stand for re-election to the Cook Library Board notwithstanding spending more funds than all of his opponents combined resulted in his crawl to a last place finish.

It is hard to imagine how this group lost any credibility by their latest escapade, since most voters, if knowledgeable of their identity, dismiss them as local political scoundrels. Your editorial suggested that the voting public at large can decide how to deal with the assembly in the future—failing to reveal the identities of the individuals responsible for this jihad does not assist the voters in their efforts to cleanse our local political scene of this pestilence.

This group deserves an in-depth investigation expose of their funding and membership. The local Republican party should be chastised for failing to censure these ersatz Republicans for blaspheming the legacy of Ronald Reagan's rules of competition and dishonoring the party of Lincoln.

Frivolous complaints

I had to laugh out loud when I read Thomas Maratea's letter to the editor regarding David Grosskopf. To try to spin the actions of a developer like David Grosskopf as some type of "do-gooder" citizen is ridiculous.

Mr. Grosskopf is clearly doing the work of Gurnee Mayor Kristi Kovarik in attacking her political opponents, while trying to make it appear that the mayor has nothing to do with it. Mayor Kovarik has not only refused to condemn these vicious attacks, but in some cases has encouraged them by agreeing with some of the obscene statements Mr. Grosskopf has made. Does Mr. Maratea want Gurnee citizens to forget Mr. Grosskopf's website at www.tomdon.com? Does he want Gurnee citizens to ignore the part of the website where he refers to Peter Karlovics' wife, who has a pale complexion, as Morticia from the Adam's Family? Does he want Gurnee citizens to disregard the part of the website where he ridicules Mr. Karlovics' military service in the Marine Corps during Desert Storm by calling him "Gomer Pyle"? Does he want Gurnee citizens to look the other way at the derogatory remarks made against a Gurnee Plan Commission member, who did not support one of the developments he favored?

Does he want Gurnee citizens to close their eyes to the fact that Mr. Grosskopf filed frivolous ethics complaints against former Mayor Rudny, Trustee Tom Chamberlain and Peter Karlovics? Why does Mr. Grosskopf keep mentioning his ethics complaints against these people when they have been ruled to be frivolous by two independent counsel investigations?

Proud of son

The Lake County Grand Jury met and indicted two former jail superintendents, Charles DeFilippo and Larry Lesza. They were charged with conspiracy, attempted theft and forgery. The charges were the result of a two-year investigation by Atty. Gen. Lisa Madigan's office. Lisa Madigan stated that these indictments may have saved the Lake County tax payers hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The investigation was the result of 24 allegations brought against the sheriff's department by a former employee, a Lake County corrections officer, Michael Horowitz. The charges were first brought to light at a County Board meeting when he read a letter he had written to U.S. States Attorney, Patrick Fitzgerald. Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re had stated that there was no basis to the charges and that Horowitz was just a disgruntled ex-employee.

The last two years have been difficult for this whistleblower. Michael Horowitz lost his job and has been denied the opportunity to work in his chosen profession, law enforcement. He lost his insurance coverage, he has gone through his savings and his reputation has been severely damaged. He has also lost some of his friends based on the action he has taken.

Yet, in spite of all this, he believed he had done the right thing no matter what the cost. We are writing this because Michael is our son. We want to say publicly we stand behind him and are extremely proud of his actions. We want the taxpayers of Lake County to take the time to know their County Board members, become involved and hold all elected officials accountable for their actions. This is especially important when voting for our next sheriff.

School gets 'rolled'

The Round Lake Village Board has again voted to annex land at Route 120 and Wilson Road for the Ryland/Emerald Bay development. In the village's haste, Big Hollow School District will not receive impact fees covering the impact or any transition fees.

The school district has been blamed for unproductive negotiation with the developer. Annexation agreements/fees are between a village and developer, with schools only being an interested party. What leverage do they have negotiating more than the bare minimum?

Although the commercial property is not within Big Hollow's district lines, this development is important to village expansion. Can't the village officials live up to their word and give schools educating their community's children the best chance possible?

Corruption bombshell—hits sheriff's department

July was a hot month for everyone, and it became "real hot" for the Lake County Sheriff's Office when two deputies, former superintendents of the jail were indicted.

Larry Lesza, with 26 years in the department and 20 of that as superintendent of corrections, and Charles DeFilippo, with 23 years in the agency and the successor to Lesza as head of corrections, until he resigned in 2003, were charged with conspiracy, attempted theft, and forgery in a fraudulent scheme to increase DeFilippo's retirement pension. The charges allege that the two deputies conspired to falsify documents in 1999 with the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund that would give credit to DeFilippo for being a deputy three years earlier than he had. With that false documentation, the retirement agency granted an additional three years of work credit to DeFilippo's record.

He stood to benefit almost $350,000 by the fraud that he and Lesza had perpetrated. Both of the deputies are now living in Florida, but will be soon extradited to face the criminal charges in Lake County.

The indictments culminate an almost two year investigation by the offices of Atty. Gen. Lisa Madigan and Lake County State's Atty. Mike Waller. The pension fraud charges were a part of 24 separate charges leveled at Sheriff Gary Del Re by Michael Horowitz, a corrections officer who was fired by Del Re in May of 2003.

When Horowitz made his charges against the Sheriff's Department, Del Re and others insisted that that all of the claims were groundless and a thorough investigation would find them baseless.

After the indictments were returned, Del Re's comments were more restrained, saying that he was upset and troubled by the charges.

Sheriff Del Re should be troubled. The prosecutors have indicated "the investigation is continuing." "How many times have we heard U. S. Attorney Patrick Fitzgerald tell the media during the "George Ryan scandal" and "Chicago Mess" surrounding Mayor Richard M. Daley, "This is an ongoing investigation."

It has been true and consistent that in most major corruption scandals, the investigation begins with some "lesser lights," but close ties, to the "top dog," being indicted and convicted of some form of corruption. It is also true and consistent that a high percent of those "lesser lights" even though they say that they would never turn against their boss or other higher ups, surrender to what they think would be in their own best interests. Will that be the case in this "retirement fraud scandal? Both DeFilippo and Lesza, if convicted, face the possibility of prison sentences and loss of the pensions that they may have earned.

Will either Lesza or DeFilippo, or both, cooperate with prosecutors to look into these charges? It is also true that once an investigation begins of an agency of government, and those who feel no sense of intimidation if they come forward with information that can help those who are pursuing the investigation, it becomes so much easier to get a full and accurate investigation.

Since it is apparent that this alleged wrongdoing many have occurred, the citizens of Lake County deserve a full examination of all that has been leveled at the chief law enforcement agency of the county. It is not enough that citizens hear about "this and that" which may allude to corruption and they year it "on the street." If there is corruption in the agency, as Michael Horowitz alleges, let's root it out as soon as possible. Let's not wait for elections to hear charges, and everyone seems to put their "earmuffs" to them with "it's just election time talk."

Madigan and State's Atty. Mike Waller have a lot of work to examine all of the operations of the Sheriff's Department. I believe that, if there are matters that "should be cleaned up," they will receive the cooperation of the rank and file of the department. They surely want their agency to be the best that it can be.

Anything less than a full and genuine investigation of "everything," would leave the citizens and taxpayers more than "upset and troubled." They would be outraged.

Bean 'PACing' funds for 06 election campaign

Follow the money," advises Illinois Republican Party Chairman Andy McKenna when it comes to sizing up the campaign for re-election in 2006 of Congresswoman Melissa Bean (8th-IL).

McKenna says that shows that over 50 per cent of Democrat Bean's contributions came from outside of Illinois while over 90 per cent are from out of the 8th Dist. of west Lake County, northwest Cook County and part of McHenry County.

In the second quarter report period, Bean reportedly raised $13,350 or 7.6 per cent from individuals in the district. Two announced GOP candidates raised a total of $263,350 or 54 per cent in the district. At one point, Bean raised $138,226.16 through Emily's List, a fund raising organization for pro-choice candidates.

McKenna advised voters to keep an eye on how much PAC money Bean receives and whether the PAC values match most conservative 8th Dist. voters.

Getting acquainted

Libertyville Mayor Jeff Hager has gotten to be a familiar face on Milwaukee Ave. in his intensive drive to court local business people. Hager has spent more time talking to small business owners in recent weeks than he did during the municipal election campaign last spring. The get acquainted campaign is designed so the business community can become comfortable with Hager's "no tax" increase policies. Hager's detractors say all the attention is to "soften up" the business community for establishment of a special service area to be created for providing development funds.

Morning event

Democrats are taking over Midlane Country Club, a popular Republican gathering spot, on Friday, Sept. 5, for the annual Lake County Democratic Central Committee annual golf outing. It'll be a morning affair with breakfast from 6:30 to 7:45 a.m. with a shotgun start at 8 a.m. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m. Golf, breakfast and lunch will be $150. For information call 847-623-4656.

New police station

Grayslake Mayor Tim Perry sees relocation of the village police department to a residential area as a positive step toward downtown redevelopment. The present station, located in what once was a bank and later the village hall, is considered prime real estate for mix-used development. Village officials have earmarked $3.5 million for a new police administration center to be built at Atkinson Rd. and Washington St. It will be the first time in village history that a building will be expressly built for police purposes.

New CLC era

College of Lake County is expected to enter a new era of diversity with DeRionne Pollard taking over as vice president of educational affairs. She is a specialist in reaching non-traditional students. A native of Chicago's South Side, Pollard is a long-time senior administrator at CLC.

that Gary Skoien, Cook County Republican chair, filling the vacancy for executive director of the Lake County Republican Federation. Having twice run for Congress in Lake County, Skoien is familiar with the territory, but he's committed to building Republicanism in the Democratic stronghold. Skoien lost his every day job because he came up with the plan for a $10,000 bounty for information leading to the conviction of Mayor Daley of Chicago.

2 sides of story

Two versions of what's happening in state government will be presented members of the Green Oaks-Libertyville-Mundelein-Vernon Hills Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, Aug. 16, at St. Mary's of the Lake. The Democratic view will be presented by State Rep. Kathy Ryg of Vernon Hills. The Republican view will be offered by State Rep. Ed Sullivan Jr. of Mundelein. Ryg and Sullivan represent the area covered by GLMV in the Illinois General Assembly. Cost of lunch is $20.

COMMENTARY

People should decide fairgrounds future

The fairgrounds "regional shopping center" is in public hands. If you permit your village board to forge ahead with the "Schaumburg-sizing" of Grayslake, you will regret it for as long as it takes to sell your house.

The county board is trying mightily to contain this runaway train, but the Grayslake Village Hall is where the rubber will eventually meet the road. If you sit on the sidelines and don't make a stand with your trustees, you will get a mall bigger than Hawthorn Center (which sits on about 80 acres), bigger than Gurnee Mills (which sits on 90+ acres), on the property (which is 112 acres) without a real guarantee all the road improvements will become reality.

It will be like having the fair traffic all year round.

Ask yourself: "Did you avoid driving in the area of the fair last weekend when you were trying to get somewhere?" Picture that scene almost 365 days a year. Really...I mean THINK ABOUT IT. Think about when you drive to Gurnee Mills on Grand Avenue. Imagine those six-to-eight lanes of traffic in Grayslake. Think about driving down Route 60 or Milwaukee Avenue near Hawthorn Center. Now, imagine you're trying to go to the Country Squire and a "Woodfield Mall" is across the street. Can you see what I see?

Can you see the added tens of thousands of cars on Route 45? There will literally be tens of thousands of cars added to Route 120! Visualize what will happen to Washington Street, Center Street, Casey Road, 137, 83, Rollins, Atkinson! Think about it.

Picture the "cut-through" traffic in Wildwood today. Now, quadruple it.

I can't believe the Grayslake Village Board can close their eyes and vote on a plan now that does not take you into consideration.

Communicating that to trustees is absolutely the job of the people.

I was born while my mom and dad lived on Lake Street. The Johnny-Come-Lately administration of Grayslake will soon have succeeded in fulfilling their dream of paving over and condo-sizing my hometown. It makes me sick to my stomach.

Please join me in urging the village board to do what is right. Demand your right to see the secret plan the fair has revealed to a privileged few at village hall. It's your village, not theirs.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Monster distressing

I have been a resident of Lake County for the better part of 50 years and my wife and I have lived in Arbor Vista for 20 years. I am very distressed to hear of the plans for the new "Monster Mall" on the Lake County fairgrounds property. The scope has incrementally expanded with each new tidbit of information released by Grayslake's Mayor Perry and now would apparently include 250 townhouses to buffer existing residences from a 1 million square foot Mall. The identity of the secret developer has yet to be divulged as has the exact nature of the development (could it be something like Costco?).

It is difficult to understand how another large retail center could be viable when Hawthorn and Gurnee Mills are so close by, the vacancy rate in the area strip malls is so high and Lakehurst has been recently torn down.

I am sure that, like me, the residents of Wildwood, Prairie Crossing and Grayslake are greatly concerned about the irrevocable impact on traffic, livability and the country atmosphere such a development would have on our area.

Plaudits appreciated

I would like to thank John Matijevich for his commentary on Gurnee politics. It was encouraging to see that a knowledgeable observer of Lake County politics can separate the truth from all of the mean-spirited false perceptions created about me by my opponents.

It is true that I do not personally know Mr. Matijevich and I can assure the readers that I know of no reason that his commentary would have been politically motivated.

As mayor of Gurnee my only ambition was to serve the citizens and place their interests above all others. There was much accomplished in the past four years despite the difficult economic times. I am proud of my 24 years of service to the community and have no regrets about my decisions.

Thank you, again, Mr. Matijevich, for your kind comments. It is not uncommon to have such feelings expressed to me privately by Gurnee citizens, but to see it in print was quite a pleasant surprise.

There may be a better way to say goodbye to the family pet

Company offers funerals for animals from fish to horses

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Martin Kvasnicka is a licensed funeral director, but he decided to go into business on his own and take it in a different direction. Instead of offering the traditional services, decided to initiate the Midwest to a trend that is popular on the east and west coasts.

As any pet owner knows, pets are more like members of the family than just an animal. In general, the pet industry is burgeoning. One service that hasn't been widely offered here is funeral services or cremations for pets.

"We'll do anything from an aquarium on up. That includes cats, dogs, snakes and horses," he said. "Lake County has the largest horse population in the Midwest, with 300,000 in the county."

Since most municipalities do not allow the burial of pets on private property, many homeowners opt to leave the remains of the beloved pet with the veterinarian.

It is against the law to bury a horse in Lake County, Kvasnicka said.

Just like most funerals or memorial services, this is something to help those left behind to deal with their loss and have some closure, Kvasnicka said.

He will perform the services for any pet, including horses.

"We treat the animals like people," he said. When a pet dies, he is willing to come to the house, or where the pet died, and pick up the animal.

If the animal is cremated, he will also bring the ashes in an urn back to the home.

"After the ashes are returned, the family usually does something with the ashes or has a memorial service," he said.

"It gives people some closure. Then they can begin to grieve. Before that, they are in denial. For a lot of people, the memorial service is important."

Kvasnicka offers a selection of urns that he collects from various places, and he doesn't mark them up.

If a pet is buried, pet cemeteries can charge $400 for a casket. "I can build them for $50." There will still be a fee charged by the pet cemetery.

If a family opts to have their pet cremated, Kvasnicka makes all of the arrangement, and makes certain the owner gets back all of its pet's ashes, which are not mingled with any other pets.

"Some vets offer cremations, but those are done a bunch all at once," Kvasnicka said. "We have no mixing of the ashes."

Funerals for human costs between $8,000 to $20,000, but pets are far less. The cost of pet cremations vary according to the weight of the animal.

The cremation of a pet that weighs between 1 and 20 pounds costs $70, and more as the weight increases. The cost for a horse is a flat rate of $1,500.

A casket at a pet cemetery can cost $400, he said. If a family prefers to bury their pet, Kvasnicka is able to build one for about $50.

"I just want to do it the right way," he said. "Some people do it the wrong way and take advantage of people, especially horse renderers."

Although he is just starting up his new business, Kvasnicka said he is getting a great response.

What to do with that cash gift

By Mary Eri

Special to Lakeland Newspapers

Oftentimes we give cash, either because we know that's what the recipient wants or we don't know what the recipient wants and it's just plain easier.

Are you the one giving a gift? If so, you may want to include a good financial book with that cash gift. Some suggestions are: Richest Man in Babylon by George Clason; The Millionaire Next Door by Tom Stanley; or Just Give Me the Answer by Sheryl Garrett and the Garrett Planning Network.

If you're on the receiving end of cash gifts, what are you going to do with your stash? Before you say you're going to Vegas, think about how you might better utilize your windfall.

Do you have an emergency fund? This is easily available money, (think savings account or money market) which will be ready for you in case of emergency, job loss, health problems, etc. Many financial advisors say you should put aside 3 to 6 months salary to safely handle most situations. It really depends on your personal situation. If you don't have one, start one.

Credit card debt adds up quickly. Paying that off should be high on your priority list because the interest rates are generally quite high and there is no tax benefit with interest paid to credit card companies like there is with mortgage interest.

Have you started a retirement plan? If you are graduating and don't have any earned income yet, you cannot contribute to an IRA. But you can put the money aside so that when you do start working, you'll be able to contribute right away. You can contribute as much as you earned or a maximum of $4,000 per year, up from $3,000 last year.

If you are getting married, consider setting up an IRA for each of you. You can generally contribute up to $4,000 per year per person, $8,000 total.

Whether you're graduating or getting married, look at Roth IRAs if you are eligible; while you will not receive a tax deduction for the money you contribute, the earnings will be tax-free if you follow the rules.

Savings for things you will need next year or a few years later, like a new car, down payment for a house, or that dream vacation.

You'll be better off saving up for these things to minimize debt later on. Most experts expect interest rates to continue to rise.

Finally, don't forget to have some 'fun' money. You can put money away for a rainy day, pay off your bills, and have nest egg for retirement, but what good is it if you don't enjoy yourself along the way? It takes a lot of effort to get there and you deserve to take a break and enjoy it.

Takeda employees help refurbish school

Company turns out for 3rd year to help area children

Following Takeda's third annual Community Outreach Day, the 650 students of Waukegan's Washington School will return to a brighter, newly landscaped and refurbished school this fall.

On Aug. 10, about 200 employees from Takeda Pharmaceuticals North America, Inc. (TPNA), and Takeda Global Research & Development Center, Inc. (TGRD), rolled up their sleeves to give back to the local community.

This marks the third year of Takeda's annual community outreach program in the local schools and their partnership with Rebuilding Together.

The participating Takeda volunteers spent the day renovating the school and surrounding grounds in an event organized with Rebuilding Together Metro Chicago, an affiliate of the nation's largest nonprofit volunteer home and community center rehabilitation organization.

This annual Takeda event provides employees an opportunity to give back to the local community and support the cause of education.

"The partnership with Rebuilding Together enables Takeda employees to further exemplify the company's mission - to help improve people's lives," said Mark Booth, Takeda Pharmaceuticals North America, Inc. president. "It is great to see so many employees pitch in to create the best possible learning environment for the students of Washington School."

Working with the Community Development and Planning Department of the city of Waukegan, Takeda and Rebuilding Together Metro Chicago identified the elementary school as the best candidate for the project based on the school's need for maintenance and repairs it could not cover on its own.

All building materials and supplies necessary to complete the renovations were paid for by a $35,000 grant from Takeda.

'Takeda and Rebuilding Together have done so much for our school, by donating their energy, time and resources. Each student will benefit from Takeda's hard work for years to come.'

Barbara Steinseifer
 Washington School principal

"We are pleased to work with Takeda for the third consecutive year to continue their tradition of improving local schools," said Lisa Mauch, assistant director, Rebuilding Together Metro Chicago. "Takeda's Community Outreach Day is our largest corporate event in a single location in Chicago, and the work they provide makes a difference with many improvements that may otherwise have been out of reach."

Last August, 220 volunteers renovated Waukegan's Andrew Cooke Magnet School, an increase in participation by more than 100 volunteers from its inaugural year, when they refurbished North Chicago Community High School.

"Takeda and Rebuilding Together have done so much for our school, by donating their energy, time and resources," said Barbara Steinseifer, principal of Washington School. "Each student will benefit from Takeda's hard work for years to come."

CAFE PYRENEES MOVING TO LIBERTYVILLE

One of Chicagoland's most popular dining experiences is about to get bigger and better. Cafe Pyrenees Restaurant will be relocating to Libertyville on Thursday, September 8. This popular family-run French eatery has been pleasing diners for a decade and a half. Its new address will be in the Adler Square Shopping Plaza, on the southeast corner of Milwaukee Avenue and Route 137.

The expanded 5,500 square ft. restaurant will offer seating for up to 250 people, a giant bar and a party room for special occasions. An expanded retail wine shop will also be available. Cafe Pyrenees will continue to offer guests wonderful cuisine, attentive service, and extraordinary value - all in a comfortable setting.

Join Us For Our 15th Anniversary Celebration

On Sunday, September 11, a special 15th anniversary celebration will be held at the new location, according to Chef Jean-Marc and Mari Loustaunau. Make your reservations now for this sumptuous and fun-filled special event. Fifteen years of successful service is an accomplishment for any business, especially one that is family owned and operated. However, Jean-Marc's success as a French Chef pre-dates Cafe Pyrenees. In 1973, Chef Jean-Marc graduated from Ecole Hoteliere de Toulouse (France), with a degree in Culinary Arts. Soon afterward, Jean-Marc was recruited by the famous Le Titi de Paris Restaurant and served as Head chef from 1978-1990.

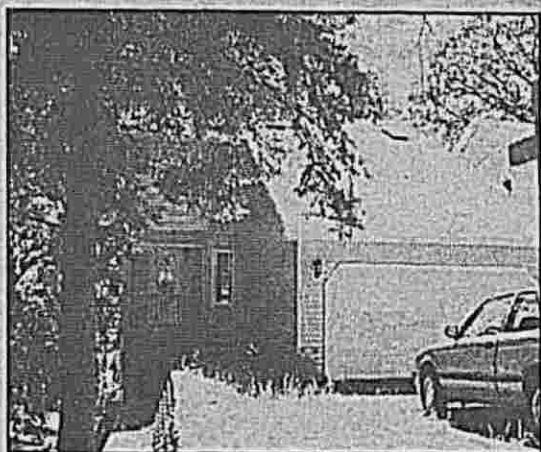

In 1990, Chef Jean-Marc opened his own restaurant in Vernon Hills, along with wife Mari. The search for the restaurant's name ended near Jean-Marc's hometown of Orthez, France where the Pyrenees mountain range can be seen.

Visit us at our present location at the Rivertree Court Shopping Center, Vernon Hills, through Sunday, September 3rd (847-918-8850). Then join us starting Thursday, September 8th as we open the doors to our new location in Libertyville in the Adler Square Shopping Plaza on the southeast corner of Milwaukee Avenue and Route 137. (847-362-CAFE).

UNEASY

Hanson, of Round Lake Beach, lived in a small apartment complex on Cedar Lake Road. Hanson's neighbors said they would have never expected such behavior from someone living within such close proximity to them.

David Miller, a resident within the same apartment complex, said he was blindsided by the revelation that his neighbor was a convicted rapist. Miller said his original impression of Hanson was actually quite positive, despite the rap sheet.

"I thought he was a nice guy, I never would have expected him to do this sort of thing," Miller said. "I just met him once and he seemed like your average, typical guy, I really didn't see anything special about him. He seemed like a pretty cool guy, my personal impression of him was that he was the friendly, outgoing sort of person. It completely shocked me when I heard about all of this."

Grace Sakulenzki, another neighbor who lived in another apartment building across the street from Hanson's residence, said she used to socialize with him. According to Sakulenzki, she used to sit outside of her apartment and talk regularly with Hanson. Again, her reaction to his arrest was dismay.

"I would've liked to have known about it because I used to sit outside and talk to him," Sakulenzki said. "He seemed like a nice guy, but now that I know someone like that used to live across the street, I'm afraid when I come home now."

Unfortunately, the revelation has forced some Round Lake Beach residents to change some of their routine. Sakulenzki no longer socializes with neighbors after the realization of a convicted rapist living within such close proximity hit home.

"I keep my door locked because I know a few of the people around here are shady," Sakulenzki said. "I just try not to sit outside by myself anymore."

While male neighbors don't fear for their own safety, they have become wary for their relatives.

"It's shocking and it's a big surprise to know that he was living in my building," Miller said. "I live alone in this apartment, but sometimes my grandkids come over to see me and it worries me to know that I definitely watch people closer now and try to stay away from them."

Al Roberts, an elderly man living in Hanson's building recommended notification of surrounding neighbors.

"There's too many kids living around here for people not to know about things like this," Roberts said. "They (the police) should tell people who are living around them."

Roberts' recommendation was a common thread amongst many of the neighbors. While convicted sex offenders are already posted on the Internet, some do not have computers to access the records.

"Not everyone has a computer and I know that none of my neighbors have a computer to get online," Sakulenzki said. "I really think we should receive some notification from the police so we all know who's around us."

charged with a single count of forgery, conspiracy to commit theft in excess of $100,000 and attempted theft exceeding $100,000.

Both men pleaded not guilty to the charges. Thomas Briscoe, DeFilippo's attorney, labeled the case a "witch hunt."

But, Michael Horowitz, a former jail guard who spurred the indictment by filing with the U.S. Attorney's office a 24-point complaint alleging malfeasance and misconduct in the Sheriff's department, said it was well founded.

"This is an ongoing thing," Horowitz said in an interview with Lakeland Media. "It started way before I got there and it will be going on after I'm long gone."

Booras released DeFilippo and Lesza on personal recognizance bonds in the amounts of $500,000 and $300,000, respectively. He also forced them to turn over their passports.

Lesza retired as deputy director of the Lake County Department of Corrections in 2000 and DeFilippo was promoted to the position. DeFilippo resigned in 2003 after allegations broke that he sexually solicited a woman via Internet instant messages.

Both men now reside in Florida.

How you can join county's Adopt-a-Highway program

Business, civic, social, youth and not-for-profit organizations looking to volunteer in their community can adopt a highway from the Lake County Division of Transportation.

The program allows groups to work together as a team, twice a year, to pick up litter on both sides of the adopted stretch of county highway. Groups develop teamwork, promote their organization and provide a valuable public service to the community.

Adopt-a-Highway is particularly suited to environmentally conscious organizations and citizens. The program provides an opportunity for these groups to make a personal contribution for a cleaner environment.

Adopt-a-Highway volunteers have removed litter from 250 sections of Lake County highways. Thanks to their efforts, the organizations have improved the appearance of the county's highway system.

"With over 303 centerline miles of county highways, Division of Transportation highway workers cannot keep up with the amount of litter that people generate," said Director of Transportation/County Engineer Marty Buehler. "We need volunteer efforts of citizens and organizations to help keep our roadways clean. We're extremely grateful for their efforts in the past and look forward to working with new groups in the future."

The Lake County Division of Transportation provides participants with high-visibility vests, trash bags and safety information. Groups are recognized on street signs placed along their adopted stretch of highway.

Current participants include groups such as the Cuneo Museum, Banner Day Camp, Abbott Labs Employee Credit Union and the Mundelein High School SADD program.

Applications for the Adopt-a-Highway program are available by calling the Lake County Division of Transportation at 847-362-3950.

Applications should be sent to the Lake County Division of Transportation offices, 600 W. Winchester Road, Libertyville 60048. Adopt-a-Highway applications are due by Aug. 15 for the fall program. Participants must be at least 10 years of age. Participants younger than 18 must have adequate adult supervision.

For details, visit the Division of Transportation at www.co.lake.il.us.

Lutherans help build habitat houses

Between Aug. 13 and 20 Habitat for Humanity Lake County and Thrivent Financial for Lutherans will raise the walls on two new houses at 1392 and 1306 Carter Court and begin rehabbing an existing house at 2324 14th St. in Waukegan. The houses are part of the Carter Woods subdivision currently under construction by Habitat.

Volunteers from local Lutheran churches are funding and building the houses as part of their Thrivent Builds Homes program.

Thrivent Financial for Lutherans is a not-for-profit, faith-based fraternal benefit society called to improve the quality of life of its members, their families and their communities by providing solutions that focus on financial security, wellness and caring for others.

Together with its members, Thrivent Financial provides approximately $200 million annually for programs and activities that support congregations, schools, charitable organizations and individuals in need.

Thrivent Builds Homes is a national program designed to build homes with Habitat for Humanity. In 2005, Thrivent Financial will contribute about two-thirds of the funding for this new program through a national grant, with the remaining funding coming from the continuing efforts of local Thrivent chapters, Lutheran congregations and Habitat for Humanity affiliates.

The program began this year in the greater Chicago area and Detroit/Southeastern Michigan. It will expand nationwide in 2006 and ultimately will include local and international efforts to build hundreds of homes per year.

Habitat for Humanity Lake County is extremely excited about the program and considers itself blessed to be among the first Habitat affiliates to work with Thrivent Builds Homes.

Founded in 1989, Habitat for Humanity Lake County is nearing completion of its 100th house.

For more information about Habitat for Humanity Lake County and Thrivent Builds Homes call the Habitat office at 847-623-1020.

Backpack basics

Walk around a schoolyard, and you are guaranteed to see one thing — backpacks. The backpack has become a popular and practical way for children of all ages to tote their books, pencils and more. But you can't just choose the coolest-looking one in the store — you have to make sure it fits properly so that you don't end up hurting yourself.

When back-to-school shopping for a new backpack, it's important to look for the right size bag for you. Bigger is not always better. The bag should fit your body size. You can find these recommendations on the manufacturer's tag.

You also want to make sure the bag can hold what you need. So bring along some books, binders and other school supplies so you can simulate what will go into the bag. You don't want to overstuff it. If it gets too heavy, not only will it ruin the bag, but it also will injure your spine, muscles and joints, according to the American Academy of Pediatrics, which can lead to severe back, neck and shoulder pains as well as posture problems.

When trying on a backpack, check the waist belt and shoulder straps. The bag should have two wide, padded shoulder straps to distribute weight evenly. Narrow straps can dig into shoulders, and backpacks with one shoulder strap don't allow for even weight distribution.

These straps should rest equally on the shoulders, allowing the pack to sit comfortably on the back. It's too low if it hangs down and hits your rear, and it's too high if it rests on your neck. Use shoulder straps to adjust the height to 2 inches above your waist. If you can't adjust the height to this level, search for a another backpack.

Also look for a bag with a waist belt, which can help distribute the weight of the load more evenly. It should buckle and adjust like a regular belt. Make it snug enough to keep the pack from moving but loose enough that you can breathe comfortably.

The backpack should also have a padded back and be lightweight. The padding makes it more comfortable and protects you from the protruding sharp edges of any objects inside. And a lightweight backpack ensures that you aren't carrying unnecessary extra weight from the bag itself.

Pack it right. Overall, you should be comfortable and balanced when you wear it. You shouldn't have to lean forward; that means it's overloaded. According to Backpack Safety America (www.backpacksafe.com), an online resource for backpack safety, the maximum weight of a loaded backpack should not exceed 15 percent of your body weight. For example, a child who weighs 100 pounds shouldn't wear a loaded backpack heavier than 15 pounds. If the backpack exceeds 15 percent of your body weight, take some unnecessary items out and reorganize them, using all compartments and placing heavier items near the center of the bag. Pack items neatly so that they stay in place and don't slide around, shifting weight from side to side.

The right backpack is not a surefire guarantee to bring you to the head of the class, but it definitely can help bring your supplies to class.

Irish Dance popular at summer fairs

Dancers from The McNulty School of Irish Dance are enjoying performances at several local and regional fairs this summer. At the Lake County fair, dancers Rachel Bruno, Ryan Constantino, Daniel Hoy and Breda Moran took 2nd place in the Talent Contest. Needless to say, the kids were thrilled!

At the McHenry County Fair, senior dancers Noreen Brown and Rebecca Weber danced a lively heavy shoe reel choreographed to music by The Corrs. Elsewhere, larger groups of The McNulty Irish Dancers have performed to tremendous audience reaction at Libertyville Days in June and Mundelein Days in July.

On August 15, the group will take the Ethnic Stage at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield. Their hour-long performance there will feature dancers from beginners to advanced to adults. The dancers will also perform at the Schaumburg Flyers Baseball "Irish Heritage Night" on Friday August 26, at Long Grove Irish Days on Sunday Sep 4, and in West Dundee at the St. Catherine's Irish Fest on Sunday Sep 11.

The McNulty School of Irish Dance offers students many opportunities to compete and perform. Irish dance is a fun way to connect with today's multi-cultural world. Irish dancers develop concentration, coordination & self-confidence while learning to appreciate world dance traditions. McNulty dancers stretch their minds as well as their physical abilities — to embrace new ideas, respect world cultures, and build new friendships while appreciating old traditions.

The McNulty School of Irish Dance offers classes for children and adults, with special boys only and teen beginner classes in some locations. Call 847-698-4434 or visit www.mcnytyrishdancers.com for more information.

More than just an 'Act'

Drama Kids Program comes to Lake County

Realizing the opportunity to make a 'dramatic' difference in the community, local entrepreneur Paula Coombe has set out to build the speech skills and confidence of children throughout Lake County by offering a new program that is changing the 'scene' of traditional drama instruction.

Coombe recently launched Drama Kids of Lake County, part of the largest after-school drama program in the world, with more than 40,000 students currently enrolled at 1,000 plus locations both in the United States and internationally. Its copyrighted curriculum features original, creative lessons with a built-in advancing scale of language development that enables students of different ages and abilities to relate to the program and progress at their own rate. Its curriculum differs significantly from traditional drama programs, with an emphasis on activities that focus on verbal dynamics, creative movement and dialogue development.

"At Drama Kids, children have fun learning important communication skills they will need to succeed in life," said Coombe, who owns and operates Drama Kids of Lake County. "The skills they learn in our program gives them the confidence they need for basic activities required at school, such as giving a report to the class, reading aloud in a group setting or participating in classroom discussions. To me, the definition of a 'quality after-school enrichment program, is something that maximizes what is taught during regular school hours, yet be so enjoyable that children don't even realize they're learning. Drama Kids fits that mold perfectly."

Drama Kids of Lake County offers age-appropriate classes for students ages 5 through 12 years old. Classes meet once each week for one hour at locations throughout Lake County including class sites in Round Lake, Grayslake, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, Mundelein and Libertyville. The program is designed to allow new enrollment throughout the year, space permitting. Drama Kids also offers Summer Camp and an In School program that brings its innovative curriculum directly into the classroom.

Unlike most other drama centers, where children memorize and recite lines for a performance, the Drama Kids curriculum utilizes fun, creative and interactive activities that aim to improve communication skills and build confidence and self-esteem. Drama Kids maintains that drama is a fundamental part of education that teaches children to speak out clearly and relate confidently with peers. In a classroom environment, these skills improve a child's ability to give book reports, speeches and actively participate in group projects.

"The bottom line is that the Drama Kids curriculum will enhance a child's academic experience," Coombe said. "Parents need peace of mind that after the school day ends, their children are involved in valuable activities that enrich their learning. With Drama Kids, they're getting the best out there. We have an internationally established brand. We use proven, fun drama activities to focus the bold, outspoken child, and to draw out the quiet child, helping them reach into themselves and discover their full potential."

During the school year in the Drama Kids program, students learn to improve skills in speech, verbal dynamics, creative movement, language development, and dialogue development. Using snippets, scene starters, structured improvisation and mini-scripts, students develop strong skill sets and present what they have learned at mid-year presentations and at end-of-year productions. Special achievement certificates and T-shirts are awarded to students as they complete each year of the program.

Local golf instructor's story is the stuff of legend

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

If you had told Julius Richardson more than 70 years ago when he was a young boy, that he would one day become one of the best golf instructors in the U.S., he would have thought you were crazy.

Golf in the 1920s was a sport for the privileged, and would remain that way for many years. It's safe to say that Richardson, the son of a Pennsylvania coal-miner, did not have a privileged upbringing.

His problem wasn't just a lack of wealth, but also a problem of race. At that time, the only blacks welcomed on a golf course either mowed the grass or carried the players' clubs. He didn't even pick up a golf club until he was in his late 20s.

Yet, more than four decades after first playing the sport, Richardson was recognized by the United States Golf Teachers Federation in 2000 as the "Teacher of the Century." He was also named one of the country's top 100 golf teachers by Golf Magazine.

Although he never realized his dream of playing on the PGA Tour, because rules at the time prohibited blacks from playing professionally without an apprenticeship, he's able to live a different dream everyday as an instructor at Pine Meadow Golf Course in Mundelein.

"In spite of not being able to play on the tour, I always felt that if I had the chance I'd prove that I belong in this game," Richardson said.

While it's obvious now that he does belong in the game, like most players, he struggled mightily on his first attempt at golf.

"I always played football and baseball, but I had a very good high school friend who was always asking me to play a round of golf with him," Richardson said. "So finally I gave in, and I never did hit the ball. I was embarrassed because I could hit a 90-mile-an-hour fastball, but I couldn't hit a ball that was standing still."

Within two years, however, Richardson was able to beat his friend, and eventually had three eagles in one round, with two of those coming on Par-4's. Charlie Sifford wouldn't break golf's color barrier until 1961, however, so Richardson turned instead to teaching while in the military.

"I started teaching because I couldn't understand why it took some people three or four years to get decent," Richardson said. "If three-and-a-half million people take up golf, three-and-a-half million people will eventually give it up because it's too time-consuming, expensive and difficult. But my students have a 90 percent retention rate in the sport."

That's because, according to golf writer Mark Gearen, Richardson's methods are highly effective.

"He's one of the best fundamentals teachers I've ever seen," Gearen said. "I know a lot of teaching systems and his is a very effective one."

Borrowing from his years in the military, as a member of the 10th Cavalry's "Buffalo Soldiers," Richardson uses drills and repetition to drive home his lessons.

"The military can take the dumbest person in the world and teach them how to perform well because they drill you," Richardson said. "That's my concept. You have to do something over and over until you habituate it."

In fact, Richardson won't even let his students step on a golf course until after the eighth hour-long lesson.

"I start with putting and chipping, then I move on to ball position and alignment," he said. "And the lessons I give can be practiced at home. Once they get all that right, I give them drills on how to pivot; then after eight lessons, I let them go on the course,

'He's (Julius Richardson) one of the best fundamentals teachers I've ever seen. I know a lot of teaching systems and his is a very effective one.'

book "Better Golf: A Skill Building Approach"

and as long as they practice they should be able to do well. On the ninth lesson, I do course management."

Another reason his lessons work is because Richardson also considers himself a student of the game.

"I was a student of golf the day I first picked up a club," he said. "I was fascinated. I learned everything I could and read every book I could find on golf before I finally came into my own concept of teaching."

"My goal is to make you the teacher, then I can change roles and have you teach me so you can gain insight into the game."

Richardson's lessons are so effective that his students began to ask him if he had a book or video they could use. Though he didn't at the time, that soon changed.

"People were telling me that I shouldn't leave this world without bringing forward my concept of teaching, and right before I made the Top-100 (instructors) list, I decided to write a book," he said.

The book, "Better Golf: A Skill Building Approach," which was co-written by Gearen, outlines Richardson's methods, including his focus on the "six key body angles" of golf.

"The reason I got so good at golf is because I had the proper foundation for a swing," Richardson said. "And it has to do with the six angles. You can put clubs down by the target and I won't be more than

All in the family

Domination is par for the course for Schachner siblings

By Dan Patrick

Sports Reporter

Sibling rivalry is usually manifested at the dinner table with petty fights over food or toys. While you won't find any petty bickering in the household of Libertyville golf standout Nicole Schachner and her older brother and current Duke Blue Devil Michael Schachner, you will find a rivalry of excellence on the golf course.

In case you don't remember Michael's legacy on Lake County golf courses, the former Wildcat won 17 tournaments in four years of varsity play. He also won the 2003 DuPage County Junior Classic and was named as the Illinois Junior Golf Association Player of the Year in 2002. As for his college career, Michael is quickly rising up the depth chart on the Blue Devil roster.

While Nicole might have had some big shoes to fill, she's certainly risen up to the challenge. The soon-to-be senior was a state qualifier in each of her first three years of varsity play, an All-State selection as a sophomore and stands among Lake County's best in the golfing arena.

The game first became a part of life for both as an activity for bonding with their father. While it's been a long road from the family bonding trips, it's easy to say that both Michael and Nicole have enjoyed the success that has stemmed from it.

"Our dad was a good golfer and he started playing after he got out of college," Michael said. "He always played and I wanted to play with him, so I started when I was 3 years old. Before that, I even had my own set of plastic clubs I would play around with in the backyard."

For Nicole, her golfing career began as a case of follow-the-leader. Now most Lake County golfers are the ones doing the following on tournament leader boards.

"Michael and dad were always playing together and I just tagged along because I didn't want to be left out," Nicole said. "I started when I was four and ever since then, I haven't stopped."

Such success can only lead to one thing: college coaches pounding on the Schachner door begging for her commitment. Thus far, Nicole has received notification from the University of Wisconsin, Georgia, Iowa and Arizona, among other big-time Division I golf programs. While the recruiting game can be trying on stand-out athletes, Nicole has taken the winning-and-dining in stride as she weighs her options.

"I'm doing the whole college search now and I'm just trying to find a good fit," Nicole said. "I would prefer going to a college that's as far away as possible, but there's a lot of good schools that I'm considering."

Now that her brother stands at the other side of the recruiting tunnel, he has some words of advice for his sibling — don't commit until you've signed the dotted line. The strategy of recruiting can bring out the worst in some coaches, but in the end, you still get a free education.

"It's really hard at times because I really didn't know what school I wanted to go to," Michael said. "I was almost committed to Wake Forest but they pulled out at the last second and I ended up at Duke. It's tough because you have to keep schools on hold just in case something like that falls through...It's hard on the coaches because they don't know if you're telling the truth and you really don't know if they're telling the truth."

Michael Schachner, a sophomore golfer for Duke University, and his sister Nicole, a senior golfer for Libertyville High School, continue to find success in the sport they love.

Recruiting aside, Michael said the college game is an experience his sister will truly enjoy. Not only has Michael's game improved since he began his collegiate career, but he has also enjoyed the camaraderie that comes with the game.

"I've made a lot of friends not only at Duke, but on all of the ACC (Atlantic Coast Conference) teams," Michael said. "A lot of times, it's the same guys that you've played in all of the summer tournaments all your life and it's fun."

While Michael and Nicole are quite humble when speaking about their respective games, both expect big things out of their siblings. As for their advice for each other, it was simple: shoot for the moon.

"I think he'll be on the PGA Tour some day. Right now, my dad and I are debating who gets to be his caddy in his first Masters tournament," Nicole said. "I don't think there's anything holding him back from going pro and he'll do great once he gets there."

Michael has similar aspirations for his sister and expects Nicole to truly come into her own playing amongst the nation's best in college competition.

"I see her going as far as she wants to in golf; I think she'll really blossom in college," Michael said. "It's been hard for her as a girl because a lot of the competition she plays against are just doing it as a casual thing. When she gets there with other players with the same focus for the game that she has, I think she'll just take off."

'I think he'll (Michael Schachner) be on the PGA Tour some day. Right now, my dad and I are debating who gets to be his caddy in his first Masters tournament. I don't think there's anything holding him back from going pro and he'll do great once he gets there.'

Boogie down

Antioch teen beats the odds to become one of nation's top riders

By Regan Foster

Staff Reporter

When 13-year-old Andrea Kidwell was born, she was at 24 weeks and weighed 1 pound, 10 ounces.

Doctors warned her parents, Antioch residents Linda and Kris Kidwell, that she probably wouldn't live.

When 7-year-old I Boogie Topless was born, she was met with high expectations as a reigning horse — a discipline that requires strong-spirited equine athletes to slide to a stop on their haunches from a full gallop and spin around their hind legs.

Her mother would nicker whenever she was out of sight.

Today, the slight adolescent who was not supposed to live and the precision-bred mare are one of the top 12-and-under competitors in the Appaloosa world.

"I sat next to (Kris Kidwell) in Oklahoma and he nearly cried," said Tricia Banwart, Andrea's trainer and the breeder of I Boogie Topless, a.k.a. "Nikki." "There we were at nationals. She's a little star."

Make that a star that's quickly rising to the top of her game.

Andrea Kidwell has spent the better part of her young life surrounded by horses. When she was born, 16 weeks premature, Linda Kidwell made a promise to herself that if the baby lived, she would have her first pony by her second birthday.

She met that promise.

By the time she was 8 years old, Andrea was active in 4-H. Her interest in the agricultural education and personal development group introduced her to Banwart, who at the time was starting her young horse, Nikki, under saddle.

Andrea started taking riding lessons from Banwart, a horse trainer and college student from Salem, Wisc. It was during a fun show in Wisconsin that Banwart got the idea of teaming Andrea up with the mare she had bred, broken, trained and showed for the last few years.

"I said 'Andrea, how about you ride Nikki?'" Banwart explained. "Everybody said 'Oh, you'd never sell Nikki,' but I thought 'Well, to the right family, maybe.'"

Andrea and Nikki took to the show arena for a few classes and, as Banwart said it, "just clicked."

Nikki and Andrea officially became a team in December, after the Kidwells agreed to purchase the mare. Late in June, the duo headed south to Oklahoma City, Okla., where they made their first appearance at the Appaloosa Junior World Championships.

The willowy girl in teal on the solid bay mare with the white stripe on her face earned top honors in Western Pleasure — a class judged in western, or "Cowboy" attire in which the horse must be smooth, slow and collected — and high accolades in two showmanship classes. Despite her age, 13, Andrea is allowed to compete in the 12-and-under divisions because horse industry rules say that age of both the horse and rider is determined on Jan. 1.

Andrea and Nikki finished in the Top 10 — seventh place, to be precise — in the nation in Western Pleasure. In their showmanship classes, which are judged on how well Andrea showed Nikki in a confirmation-based, saddle-less class, they claimed Top 20 honors.

"I am proud of her, she works really hard," Banwart said. "It took a lot for her to give the first half of her summer up to work."

Since the world competition was held the last week in June, Andrea and Nikki essentially moved to Banwart's Wisconsin home. There, the teenager was given the opportunity to see how a real horse trainer lives, often spending up to eight hours in the barn and riding several different horses in the course of a day.

"She doesn't only learn how to ride for (shows), she learns how to ride," an emphatic Banwart said.

But, Andrea wouldn't trade it for anything.

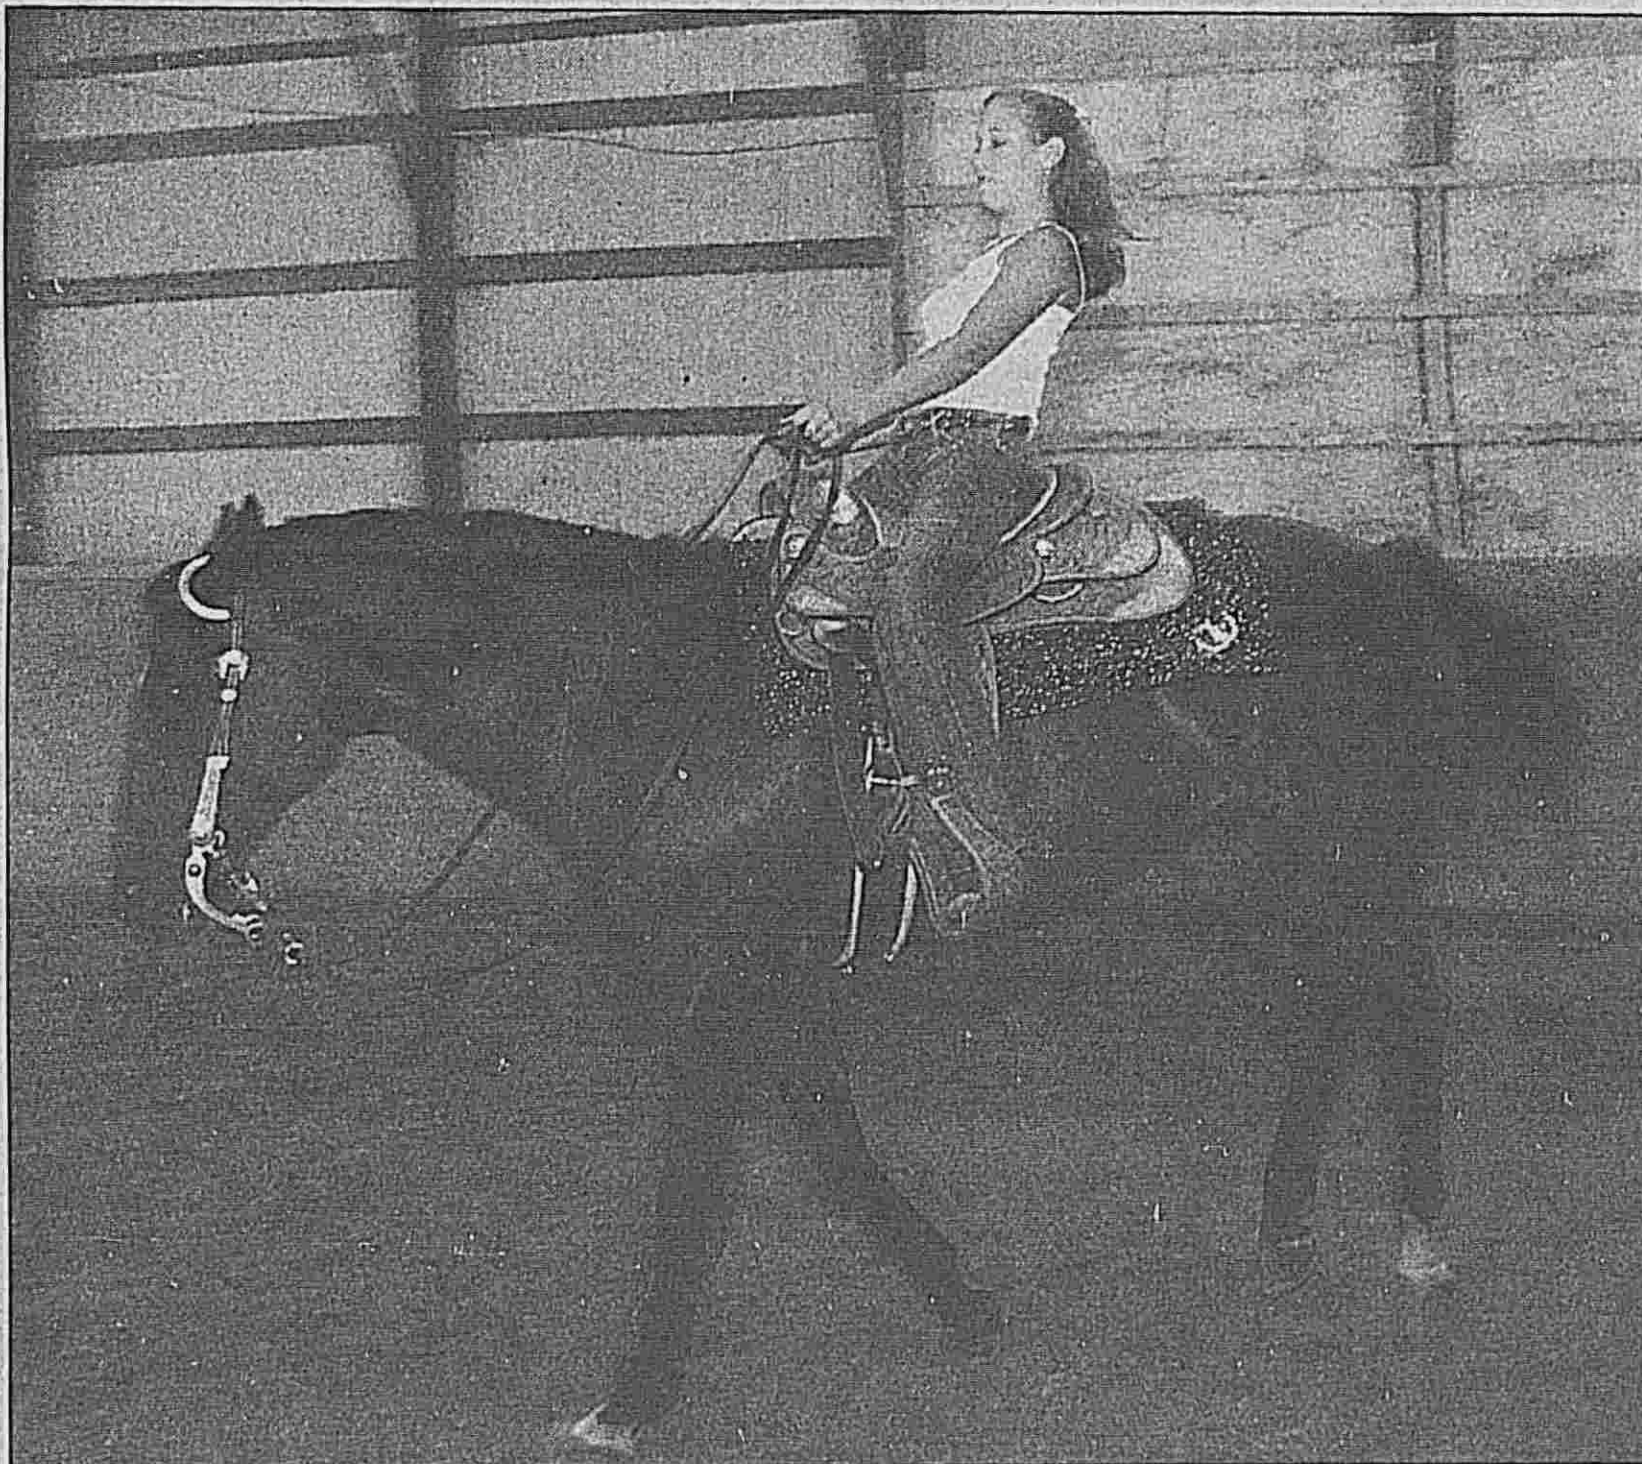

"It's just something different," she said of showing her horse. "I like it."

Patriot games

Growing numbers have Gurnee baseball program flourishing

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

While it's been the National Pastime for more than a century, when it came to Gurnee, baseball was always a distant third behind basketball and football. But with a few more summers like this, baseball may rocket to the top of that list.

First, the River Dogs, Gurnee's American Legion team, reached the Final Four in one of the toughest districts in the state; then Warren High's baseball team won 22 games and reached the state's Elite Eight. The Gurnee Patriots put an exclamation point on the summer as two of its teams met in the finals of the 15-team Mike's Memorial League, which features squads from across Lake County.

"Having an All-Gurnee title game really says that we have a great program going," said Tom Peters, coach of the 16-U Patriots, who lost to the 15-U Patriots in the finals. "It says good things about the future of the high school team because we have kids who want to play and work hard."

Baseball is a game of repetition, and when players are seeing action in more than 60 games every summer — between the Patriots, River Dogs, the Kenosha Indians and Warren High's team — they're bound to improve. No team showcased this more than the Patriots' third team, which started slow but rebounded to win five of its last six games.

"Most of Gurnee's success this summer is a direct result of playing more baseball," said Angelo Perino, league director and coach of the 18-U Patriots team. "And the reason this league has succeeded is because the kids all want to play more baseball every summer."

Though the league has been around for more than 30 years, as recently as three years ago, the Pony League, which consists of 15- and 16-year-old players, had about 80 players on just six teams. Interest was dwindling because most kids were playing with their high school teams during the summer.

But league commissioner Jim Huisel went to the local high school coaches to coordinate a schedule conducive to both teams.

"No one had ever worked with the high school coaches to eliminate the scheduling conflict," Perino said. "So we moved our games to weekends, so the kids can play with their high schools Monday through Thursday."

Gurnee added two more teams the next year and the league doubled in size to 16 teams this summer, before North Chicago dropped out. Perino expects as many as 20 teams next summer.

"The high school coaches all want their kids to play more baseball and their cooperation has been key to our success," Perino said. "We've always had an interest in baseball until the kids were 12 or 14, then they usually switched to football and basketball in the summers."

"But with our new schedule, it offers them the opportunity to play baseball and not have to make a choice."

Perino's 18-U team also fared well, finishing first in league play with a 6-2 record. He expects four more 18-U teams by next summer.

"When the best kids from Warren and Grayslake started coming out, all the other kids came out," Perino said. "It was a snowball effect."

Although the 16-U Patriots lost in the title game, they roared through the season with a 21-2 record and hit .403 as a team. But it was the pitching which Peters credits with much of the Pats' success.

"We had a lot of really good pitching," Peters said. "Chris Kamman, Josh Peters, Jason Seveska and Matt Walters did a great job."

Josh Peters also finished third on the team with a .485 average, just behind Mike Wessel (.490) and just ahead of Billy O'Neil (.480) and Walters (.471). Chris Nemeth was next with a .386 average. Matt Limbert, however, was far and away the team's leader at the plate with a whopping .625 average on the summer.

"He hit third for us and did a great job all summer," Peters said. "He also gave us very good defense at short-stop."

Peters also praised the play of Nemeth, who caught nearly every inning this summer.

"The best thing about this team and this league is most teams are 12 to 14 players and everyone plays an equal amount," Peters said. "You can't learn the game from the bench."

Short time ends for Bandits

Libertyville's coach steps down after seven successful seasons

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

In the last seven years, there are certain things you have been able to bank on during the summer — heat, humidity and a deep postseason run by the Libertyville Post 329 baseball team.

In six of those seven summers the Bandits won the District 10 tournament, and went on to win the 2nd Division tournament five times. While those accomplishments would be enough for most programs, it's the two times that Libertyville won the state title that head coach Larry Short remembers most.

"I've had a lot of good experiences in my seven years, but getting past state and going to the Midwest Regional is the most exciting thing in Legion baseball," Short said.

So it was understandable that Short couldn't help but feel a little disappointed after his team came up short in this year's 2nd Division tournament, despite finishing with 30-plus wins once again.

"I was a little disappointed because I thought we had a better team than our record showed," he said. "We were happy to win our Final Four and the kids gave a great effort; I was just hoping for more. I thought this team was built to make a run at a state title."

But Short had another reason to feel disappointed at the finish. He knew that it was the last time he'd don a Bandits uniform after deciding to step down at the beginning of the summer.

"When the loss set in it was an unfortunate situation," Short said. "Brett Lancaster and Jason Acevedo were both down because we had such a long run (3 years) together. But we walked away with our heads held high. But it was okay after that; the parents all came up and congratulated me."

Earlier this summer, Short pointed out the inconsistency of the team's pitching, especially with their control, as the team's weakness. And that weakness came back to burn the Bandits in the tournament.

In the team's opener against St. Charles, Libertyville gave up six walks and hit two more batters in an 11-9 loss.

"We out-hit them (St. Charles) 15-7, but we ended up losing," Short said. "We can't give players free bases like that. But that's how the summer went. When we didn't give up walks, the pitching was solid; but when we did, we struggled."

It was simple bad luck, however, that may have doomed the Bandits in the tournament. In a scene that Mark Prior would recognize well, Bandits ace Mike O'Leary took a ball directly off his pitching elbow, effectively ending his summer.

"Losing him was a big blow," Short said. "He did a wonderful job all summer; he was very consistent. We also lost Bryan Dovichi early in the summer to an arm injury and that cost us."

Short also praised the pitching efforts of Kyle Johnson, and Carmel seniors Tim Jousupait and Matt Diedrich, who both pitched sparingly for the Bandits because of commitments to the high school.

It was Acevedo, though, who emerged as the unquestioned leader of the Bandits.

'I was a little disappointed because I thought we had a better team than our record showed. We were happy to win our Final Four and the kids gave a great effort; I was just hoping for more. I thought this team was built to make a run at a state title.'

Larry Short
Libertyville Post 329
baseball coach

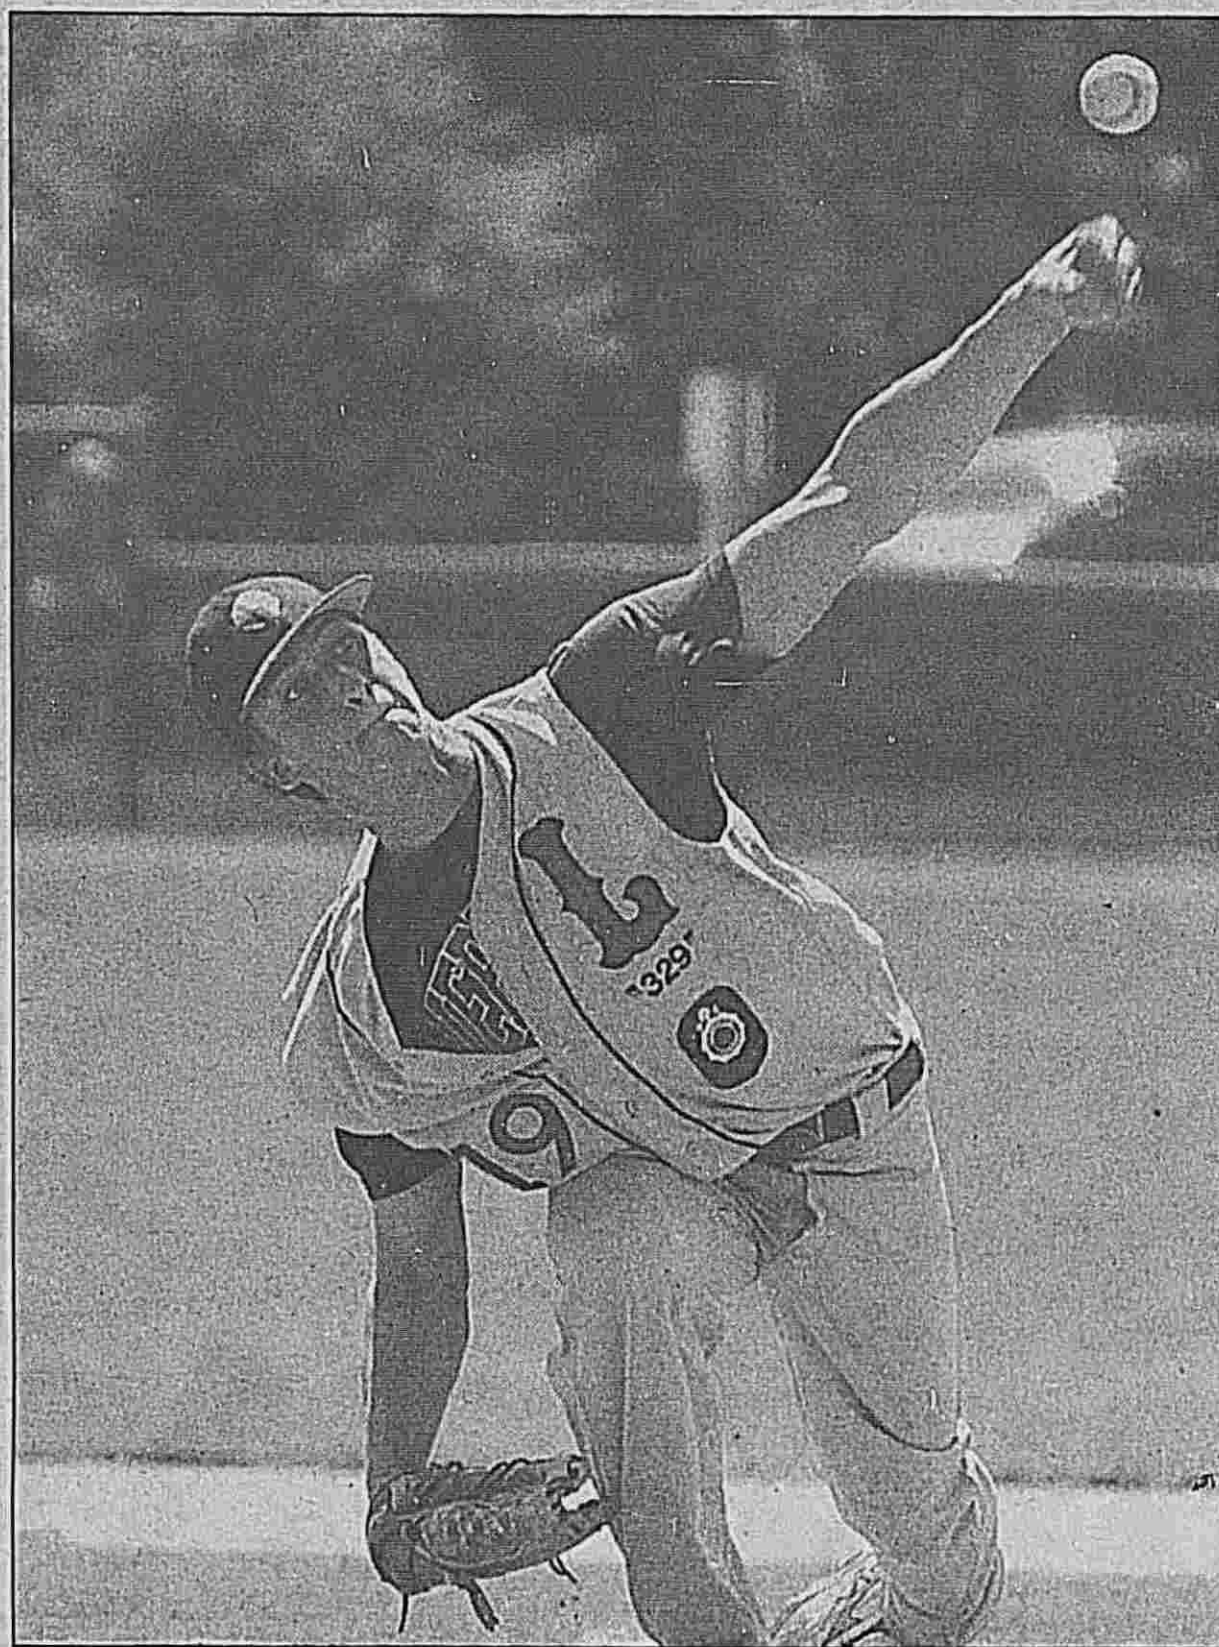

"He was just head and shoulders above everyone else at the plate this summer," Short said. "Mike Serio also did a great job."

Short was surprised, though, by the emergence of Sean McCreary, Chris Andrews and Jeff Keske.

"McCreary had a breakout summer. He really had a bright future," Short said. "Chris Andrews is a good leadoff man and he can run like the wind. And Keske is a real solid player and a hard-nosed leader."

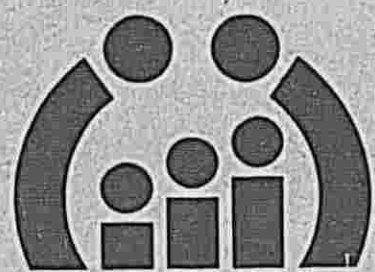

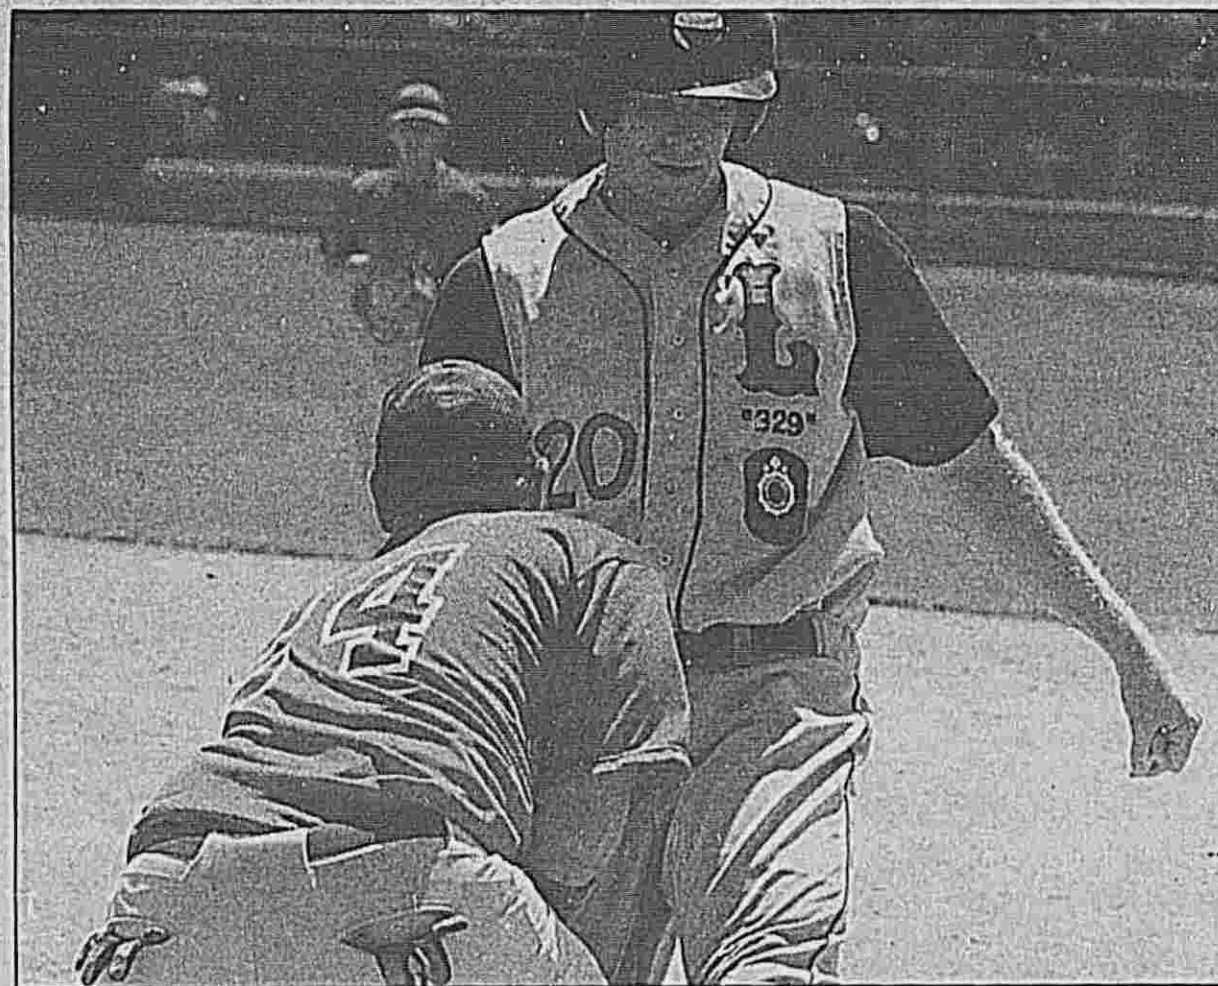

With that trio, as well as Jousupait, Diedrich and John Brennan returning, Short feels the program is in good shape for whomever takes over next summer.

"To have kids from Libertyville and Carmel on this team, and to have the support from the parents and communities has been great," Short said. "Hopefully, the success I've had will continue."

Indians double their pleasure

Both Kenosha-based baseball teams reach World Series

While talent doesn't always translate into success on the baseball diamond, when your roster is practically an All-Star team you have every reason to expect results on the field.

So although the Kenosha Indians 18-U team's trip to the World Series in Greensboro, N.C. wasn't unexpected, head coach Ron Cass still was pleased with his team's deep postseason run.

"The summer went very well for us," said Cass, whose team finished 21-13. "We made it to the quarterfinals of the national tournament, and lost 2-1 to a very good team from New York. The kids still played well."

The 18-U team received a late-season shot in the arm from 16-U call-ups Mario Perez, from Warren, and Nate Roberts.

"Mario stepped in and did a great job," Cass said. "He's the real deal. We're looking for big things next year. Nate did a good job as well."

Of course, while that duo came up big at the end of the season, Kenosha's contingent up the middle was strong throughout the summer. With center fielder Nate Hughes, shortstop Chandler Kent, second baseman Tom Shaver, and catchers Mike Hughes and Bryan Olle, the Indians had a bevy of talent in those four key positions to rival most teams in the country.

"We were so strong up the middle," Cass said. "Kent and Shaver were solid, Nate Hughes did a great job in center and Mike Hughes gave us a lot of power at catcher."

Bryan Olle didn't have as much power, but he did an outstanding job behind the plate. We were young in those positions, too."

Indeed, the Indians will likely return Kent, Shaver and Olle next summer, along with Perez, Roberts, Brandon Geweke and Ryan Ricci.

"We'll definitely be in good shape for next summer," Cass said. "We'll have a major core of this team coming back. I'm already looking forward to it."

The Indians aren't done, however. In just a few weeks the team will start play in a fall league, which has double-headers every Sunday through mid-October.

"We take as many kids as we can who don't play football and treat it like a tryout," Cass said. "We expect to have around 22 kids."

Rich Coles, coach of the 16-U team, would have loved to have 22 kids on his roster this summer. But despite playing at times with as few as nine players, his team also qualified for the World Series, held in Northville, Mich.

"The challenge for the 16-U team is always keeping the team together," Coles said. "We have to compete with other leagues and the summer high school team. When we had the World Series qualifier in Texas, we only had nine of our 17 guys. But we still managed to qualify, which is a tremendous accomplishment."

The Indians managed to finish sixth in the nation at the tournament — for which more than 200 teams are eligible — despite a number of heartbreaking losses, including blowing a late lead to the eventual champion from Indiana.

"Pitching is the difference in the tournament and we were missing three of our top pitchers," Coles said. "Ryan Witt was on vacation and Mario Perez and Nate Roberts were called up to the 18-U team, because they needed more pitching."

Kenosha managed a 26-14 final record, thanks to the efforts of several local players, including Troy Bloom (Warren), Trevor Popp (Antioch), Kevin Lewis (Lakes) and Sean Black (Mundelein). The team also included additional players from Mundelein, Lakes, Antioch, Warren and Grant.

"I'm very proud of these kids," Coles said. "We were able to combine seven different high schools and still succeed."

This is the second straight year that both teams qualified for the World Series and Cass gives much of the credit to team manager Lee Lundstrom.

"It's been a good program for years and Lee is the driving force," Cass said. "He finds the players and does the recruiting and does a fantastic job. We just have to coach them."

Record-setting summer for Blue Devils

Warren baseball tops 20 wins, reaches state tournament

By Rob Backus

Sports Editor

It's the rare baseball team that is able to start with a fury, and remain hot for any extended period of time. Just ask the 2001 Seattle Mariners or almost all the Atlanta Braves teams in the Bobby Cox era, which all flamed out after scorching starts.

So when Warren's baseball team started 10-1 on the summer, head coach Dar Townsend termed his outlook as "cautiously optimistic," a coach's euphemism for "Okay, we're off to a good start, but we have a long way to go."

However, the Devils kept winning, and kept on winning all the way through the state tournament. Though Warren lost a pair of games at state, it still managed its third Elite Eight appearance under Townsend, with 1996 and 2002 being the others, and a school-record 22 summer wins.

Given the fact that this was accomplished with only four starters returning from last year's team, Townsend's current outlook for the spring is certainly a bit higher than "cautiously optimistic."

"I think this success can definitely carry over into the spring," said Townsend, whose team finished 22-5 on the summer. "It's just a matter of staying healthy and keeping the same mindset."

The mindset Townsend is speaking of is one of total confidence, which is amazing considering that the bulk of the team won just seven games as sophomores in the spring.

"Winning just became contagious for us, like injuries were last year," Townsend said. "The kids started expecting to win. And they really rose to the occasion and stepped up when it mattered."

Though Townsend does credit a good portion of the team's success to its new additions, he knows that during the postseason, established pitchers Brian Behnke and Mario Perez were the keys to Warren's downstate run.

"They both did a great job in the tournament for us," Townsend said. "Brian made the All-Tournament team and did a great job with the (Gurnee) Legion team. Mario also pitched real well."

"It's nice to know that the top of our rotation is set because pitching is the key to any team. They'll be our 1 and 1A starters in the spring."

Juniors Brian Schmidt and Matt Limbert stepped up to round out Warren's rotation.

"They both throw the standard fastball/curveball/change and if all three pitches are going they're very effective," Townsend said. "If their control is on, watch out."

Townsend also has an established duo in the lineup, in seniors Marc Miretti and Vinnie Vitale, who will serve as captains along with Behnke.

"They both played so well for us defensively," Townsend

'Winning just became contagious for us, like injuries were last year. The kids started expecting to win. And they really rose to the occasion and stepped up when it mattered.'

said. "And they came up with some big hits and steals for us in the tournament. They did all the things we need our seniors to do."

The coach also praised the efforts of Troy Bloom, the team's second leading hitter, and Mark Deason, Brennan Drew, John Weil, Matt Walters and Vince Vivirito.

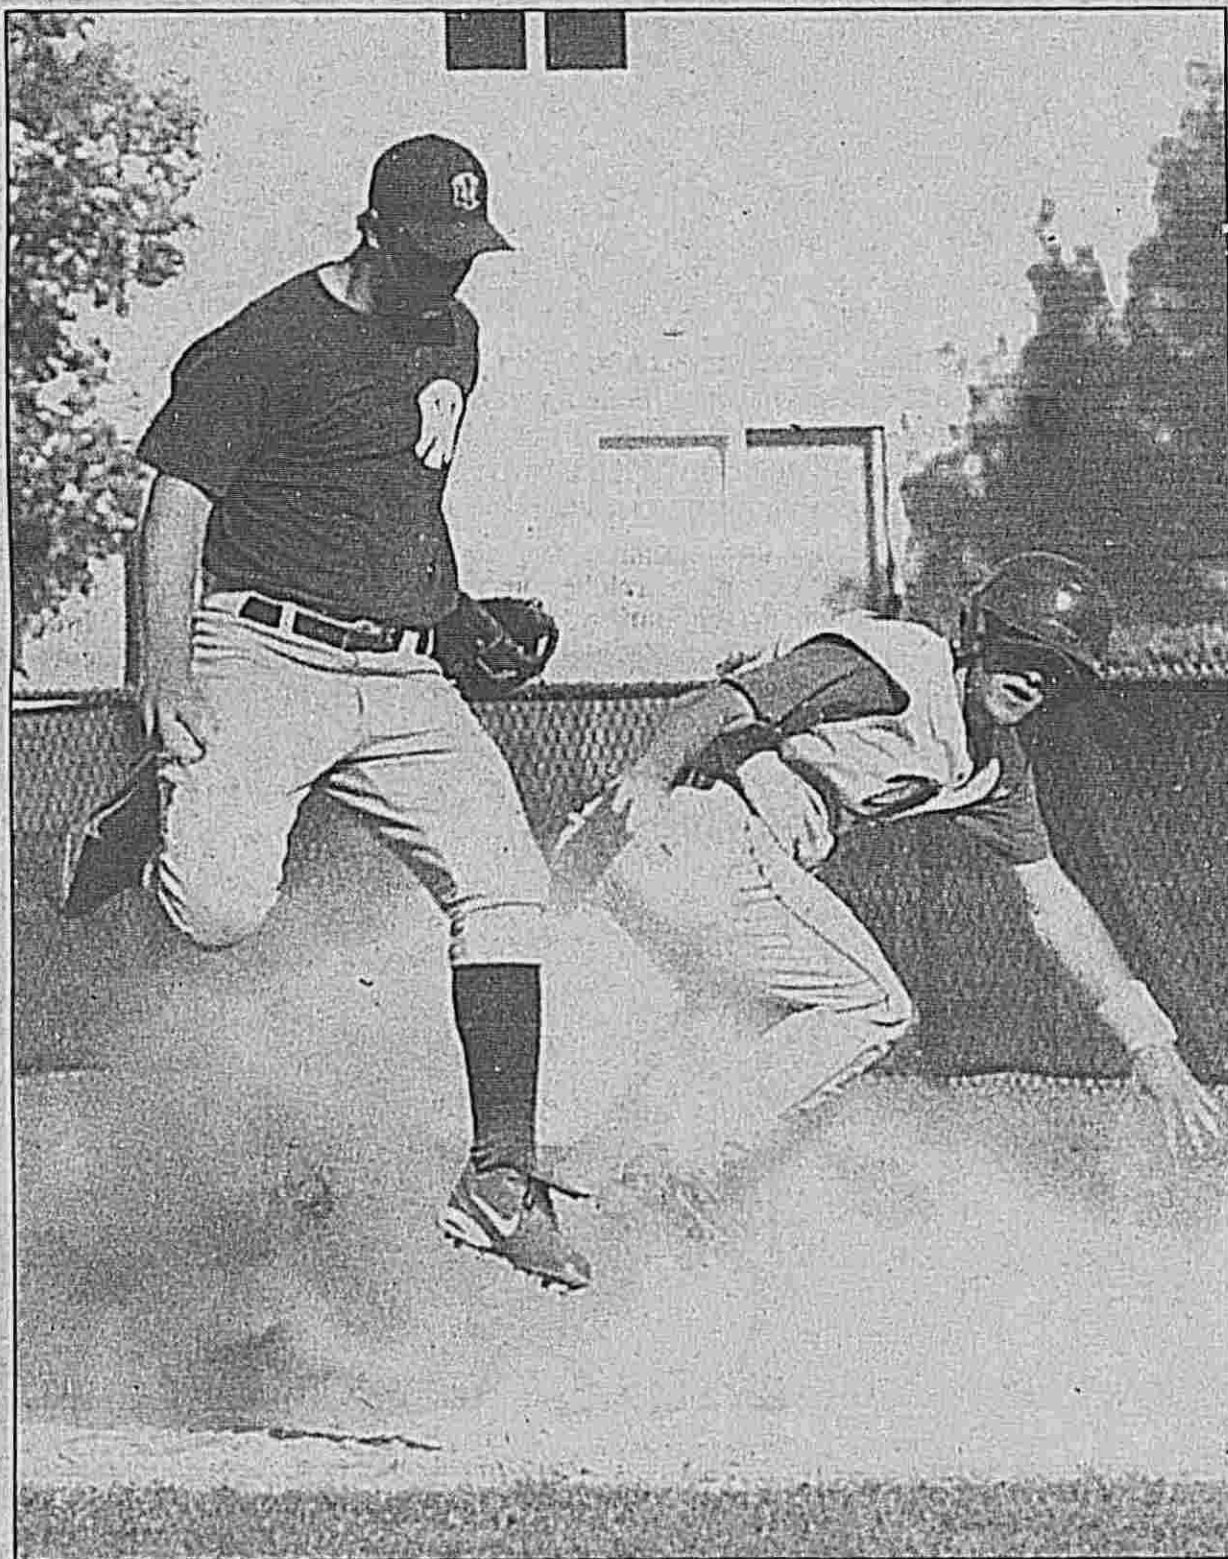

Warren was one of the rare summer teams that not only achieved its goal of development, but also added the experience of playing winning baseball.

"We wanted to develop and get a feel for the team and we were able to do that and settle into a regular lineup for regionals," Townsend said. "Plus I'm real pleased with how the kids came through and really emerged as a team. This can definitely serve as a springboard for us."

Libertyville's dynamic duo shares moniker, desire to get Cats back on top

(Above) Libertyville High School sophomores Katy Pfund, left, and Katie Larson were integral parts of both Libertyville High School's varsity softball team last season and the Libertyville Cats 16-U travel team, which competed in the USSSA World Series in Indiana last month. Most players in the field dread facing a bases loaded situation. A mistake, a bad bounce, even a split second's timing can often spell the difference between a scoreless inning and disaster for a team.

But that's not the case for Libertyville sophomores Katie Larson and Katy Pfund. Instead, their eyes light up at the opportunity to completely demoralize the other team.

Often, with the bases loaded, the runner on first base will stray from the bag, thinking that she's the last person on the pitcher's mind. The runner may be right, but Libertyville coach Mary Hoyer is certainly paying attention. If Hoyer sees the runner at first taking a large lead, she'll shout "K2B!"

Larson will then fire the ball from behind the plate over to Pfund at first. More often than not, the play will result with a picked-off runner and a crisis averted.

"I love that play," Pfund said. "The runner never knows it's coming. It can change the game and it really makes the runner mad."

"If your pitcher gets in a jam it can really help her out," Larson added. "But I like throwing people out at second base, too."

That play worked several times this year — in the spring season with the Libertyville High School varsity team and the summer with the 16-U Cats travel team, which the duo helped lead to a 25-23 record and a spot in the USSSA World Series at the end of July.

But the same name and a trick pickoff play aren't the only thing the duo shares as Larson will often go to Brewers games at Miller Park in Milwaukee with Pfund, whose parents have season tickets.

They also share a love of UCLA softball, which is why the duo traveled to Los Angeles last month for a four-day softball camp that was run by UCLA staff and players.

"It was really cool because we got to work with the players from UCLA and a bunch of other players from the Pac-10 (conference)," Larson said. "They taught us hitting and throwing and then we got split into teams."

"It was awesome because the college players had so much school spirit," Pfund said. "We were able to get a different perspective of the game. And we got to stay in college dorms."

The two also didn't waste an opportunity to see yet another baseball game and headed north to Anaheim to take in an Angels/Seattle game.

"We booked the tickets months in advance even though they don't follow either team," said Hoyer, who went with the girls on the trip. "Katie was excited because she wanted to see (Mariners outfielder) Ichiro (Suzuki) play. She's loved baseball ever since she was 6 or 7. The first thing she picks up in the morning is the sports section so she can read the box scores."

Hoyer should know because, not only has she been Larson's coach for several years, she's been her mother even longer.

But it's not just through a mother's eyes when Hoyer refers to Larson as a leader on the Cats this summer, along with Pfund. Libertyville also agrees because it has sent the two to represent the high school at the annual North Suburban Conference Student-Athlete Leadership Conference two straight years. But the two go about their leadership in different ways.

"Katy Pfund is kind of quiet, but she does a great job of leading by example,"

'I think this summer will help us out a lot as a team. Pretty much the whole team played for the Cats this summer, and we're all so close. This season will be a lot of fun and I think we'll do well.'

Katie Larson

Libertyville sophomore catcher

Hoyer said. "She didn't make an error at first last year, and the other players really respected her consistency."

"But Katie Larson is a lot more verbal. She's not afraid to give direction and she'll go back into the dugout and tell the other players about the pitches she saw."

The two were also major contributors on the field for Libertyville, but again, in entirely different ways.

"Katy Pfund can really hit for power," Hoyer said. "When she gets a hold of it, she hits it far. But she's also a good situational hitter. She's one of the best bunters on the team, but she never does it because we need her power."

"And Katie Larson is a real five-tool player. She can really run and she can play anywhere in the field."

The biggest thing the duo shares is a desire to help the high school team move back atop the NSC.

"I think this summer will help us out a lot as a team," Larson said. "Pretty much the whole team played for the Cats this summer, and we're all so close. This season will be a lot of fun and I think we'll do well."

five degrees off."

Another reason Richardson chose to write a book was to get better exposure. Word must be spreading because, on Tuesday, Richardson had a lesson with former Chicago Bulls center and head coach Bill Cartwright.

If being the best golf instructor was the only thing Richardson had accomplished in his life, he would already be a step ahead of most people.

But, Richardson also fought in the Battle of the Bulge and served in the Korean War, participated in underwater testing for the Hydrogen Bomb on the Marshall Islands and helped raise four daughters with his wife, Margaret. He also once faced baseball Hall of Fame pitcher Satchel Paige, who was on a Negro League barnstorming tour.

"I struck out," Richardson said with a laugh. "It was no contest."

While most men would slow down in retirement, Richardson, now 84, has big plans for the future.

"I would like to write another, more in-depth book," he said. "And my third book would be an autobiography."

For more information on Richardson's current book, visit his Web site at www.juliusrichardson.com.
